SINCLAIR DEFENSE HIT DOUBLE BLOW

President Reveals Opposition To Flood Control Bill

LOOKS WITH DISFAVOR ON VAST COSTS

Believes Mississippi Valley Cities Should Contribute Toward Great Expense

PREPARE FOR DEBATE

House Leaders Attempting To Reach Agreement on Moot Points of Measure

By THOMAS L. STOKES
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, April 17.—President Coolidge looks upon the flood control bill, as it passed the senate, as the most "exorbitant" proposal during his presidency and possibly during the nation's history, it was made known at the White House today.

The president is known to look with marked disfavor upon the vast expenditures called for by the bill, which, in his opinion, may amount to $1,500,000,000.

Mr. Coolidge was represented as demanding more thorough inquiry into the motive that prompted certain provisions of the flood control bill. He doubts if the senate, in rushing passage of the measure, knew what the bill really meant.

It was made clear that the president has advised that owners of large land tracts along the Mississippi are boosting valuation, antedating government purchases of spillway indemnities.

The president's position was made known as the house was preparing to debate flood control. House leaders were trying to reach a compromise on moot points of the measure, including the president's belief that Mississippi valley communities should contribute in some way to the cost of flood control.

MEXICO CITY, April 17.—Three states—Puebla, Vera Cruz and Oaxaca—felt an earthquake last night. The worst damage occurred in the city of Oaxaca, where 10 persons were killed by earth tremors a few weeks ago.

The government palace at Oaxaca is uninhabitable, dispatches received here today said.

In Puebla many persons spent the night in the streets, fearing their houses would crumble. The tremor in the Vera Cruz section was described as the most intense in years.

Seek Water Rate Increase To Help Pay Dam Damages

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—The board of water and power commissioners was to ask the mayor and city council to ratify a measure which would increase water rates from 13 to 15 cents per 100 cubic feet. This increase would provide $2,500,000 yearly, all of which would go toward the flood debt.

BURNING OF JULIAN RECORDS REVEALED

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—The action of Norman B. Courtney, secretary of the Los Angeles stock exchange, in burning records of brokers dealing in Julian over-issued stock caused a bitter session in the trial today of 10 men charged with the collapse of the oil company.

S. C. Lewis, former head of the organization, declaring he needed the records in his defense to establish the fact that A. C. Wazy company, controlled by him, did not deal in the over-issued, attempted to force Courtney to admit he had burned the records to protect other brokers.

Courtney said he did not have such an intention and, after several hours of argument, Superior Judge Doran ordered the jury to disregard the point.

Complete Probe Of Girl's Death Ordered By Keyes

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—After a conference today with A. T. Daniels, of New York, father of the girl, District Attorney Keyes ordered a complete investigation into the death, last June, of Helen St. Clair Evans, of the films.

In ordering the investigation, Keyes said he was not yet certain whether he would ask the grand jury to return an indictment against Arthur Evans, husband of the actress, who is accused of her murder by Daniels.

COURT BATTLE LOOMS AS CITY CALLS MESA ANNEXATION VOTE

S. A. Council Sets May 22 Election Date

Petition Insufficiency Will Be Grounds for Action, Lawyer Intimates

THE BATTLE for the annexation of Costa Mesa is on. The Santa Ana council last night granted the petition of residents of Costa Mesa for annexation to this city and set the date of election for Tuesday, May 22.

Stanley Reinhaus, attorney for protesters, asserted, following action by the council, that the annexation proceedings would be taken into court before election date on a writ of review. He intimated that inclusion of uninhabited territory and insufficiency of the petition would be grounds upon which court action would be filed.

Formal testimony was taken on certain points involved in the preliminary steps and Roy Browning, engineer for the Irvine company, was introduced by Reinhaus to support his contention that a large area in the district outlined for annexation is uninhabited.

Claim Not Held Seriously

In accepting the petition, the council indicated that it did not regard seriously the statement by Reinhaus that the petition did not carry the requisite percentage of names because of irregularity in the signatures of some of the signers, particularly women. Reinhaus asserted that women who have asserted that their husbands were not legally registered. Eliminations by reason of this error, and the further error of some in failing to designate the date on which they attached their names to the petition, he asserted, reduced the number of qualified signatures to 10 below the number needed.

Charles Swanner, city attorney, brought forth admission from Browning that the territory embraced in the district as a whole is inhabited territory, and Swanner advised the council that courts had held that in annexation proceedings territory as a whole should be considered when the matter of uninhabited territory is involved. Swanner also expressed the opinion that identification of a person could be made when a woman signed the first name and initials of her husband instead of her own.

Miss Marion Sutner, deputy city clerk, presented the result of her checking of the petition with the great register in the county clerk's office. The petition carried 61 names and she cancelled 61 because of irregularities, leaving the names of 25 qualified electors, a number sufficient to validate the petition.

77 Names Cancelled

Miss Margaret Esau, city treasurer, who made a special check of the petition against the great register, revealed that at the time

Coolidge Again Affirms Stand On Home Rule

President Urges Scrupulous Regard of State Rights In D. A. R. Address

WASHINGTON, April 17.—President Coolidge reaffirmed his position against entry of the federal government into private business enterprises in an address here last night before the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Asserting that "in general the country is best served through the competition of private enterprise" and that "if the people are to remain politically free, they must be economically free," the president said:

"The very essence of business is the expectation of a profit on the part of those who conduct it. Government is conducted from an entirely different motive. When business is in private hands, it is expected to be run for the benefit of the owners. When the government steps in, the purchasers and beneficiaries of what the government undertakes to supply insist that the concern should be conducted for their benefit."

Theory Different

Under these conditions, the president pointed out, business lacks enterprise and initiative, and has no motive to provide an improved service. Continuing, Mr. Coolidge said:

"Flowing out of these unavoidable conditions, if the government gets into business in any large scale, we soon find that the beneficiaries attempt to pay a large part in the control. While in theory it is to serve the public, in practice it will be very largely serving private interests. It comes to be regarded as a species of government favor and those who are most adroit get the larger part of it. Men in public life are besought to secure places of employment for some persons in their locality and favorable contracts for others. The situation rapidly develops into a position of entrenched selfishness, where a great body of public employees and large outside interests are in virtual control, with the general public paying a high cost for poor service."

Dan of Corruption

"With all the care that it is possible to exercise, a situation of this kind becomes entangled in favoritism and is always in great danger of causing corruption and scandal."

If it is desirable to avoid "the blighting effects of monopoly supported by the money of the taxpayer," prevent existence of a privileged class, shield public officials from the influence of propaganda and "keep the government unencumbered and clean, with an eye single to public service," the president declared, "we shall leave the conduct of our private business with the individual, where it belongs."

Students Look On As Suitor Slays Teacher And Self

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—Before the eyes of a dozen of her students, who ran to greet her as she entered the Starr King school here, Irene McCullough, 26, a teacher, was shot and fatally wounded today by a rejected suitor.

George Hathaway, 28, the man whose attentions she had refused, shot himself through the head as Miss McCullough fell.

The girl died an hour later in the Mission Emergency hospital. Hathaway was reported near death in the same hospital.

Two photographs of Miss McCullough, a bottle of poison and a card indicating he lived in Oakland, were found in Hathaway's pockets.

Boys and girls of her class saw her walking toward the school building and ran to greet her. Hathaway was at her side, talking in an excited voice. A short distance from the entrance, the teacher started to run. Immediately Hathaway drew a revolver and shot her. Then he turned the weapon on himself.

STATEMENT DENYING SALE OF PROPERTY TO OIL MAN AGAIN BEFORE COMMITTEE

Witness for Defendant Admits Spending Time on Millionaire's Car

By HERBERT LITTLE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, April 17.—The government attacked testimony of a major defense witness in the Harry F. Sinclair conspiracy trial today by showing that H. Foster Bain, mine bureau director, who advised leasing Teapot Dome, spent seven days on Sinclair's private car.

Brisk abrupt questions by Prosecutor Owen J. Roberts elicited this from Bain, after Bain told the jury that he and others had advised Fall the naval reserve was in serious danger of being drained.

Didn't Tell Committee

Roberts also forced Bain to admit he never told the senate Teapot Dome committee what he testified for the defense today—that he and Fall considered leasing Teapot Dome to Gulf and Pure Oil companies, but rejected them because it might embarrass Secretary of Treasury Mellon, of Gulf, and Vice President Dawes, then budget director and a Pure Oil stockholder.

Bain testified for the defense that Fall "threw aside" any suggestion that Standard Oil companies be invited to bid because their Standard-Midwest interests already had a "dominant position, if not a near monopoly," on Wyoming oil.

Roberts obtained an admission that when this conversation took place, late in March, 1922, a week or two before Fall gave the lease to Sinclair, Bain already knew that Sinclair had organized the Mammoth Oil company, especially to exploit the Teapot Dome reserve.

Tells of Drainage Surveys

Bain testified as to drainage surveys. He said he was present at a conference late in 1921, at which Fall was told by J. K. Robinson, then a rear admiral in charge of the navy's oil reserves, that an oil field not needed with the coast by pipe lines would be of little use to the navy in time of war.

NICARAGUA MARINE COST $1,628,719

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The cost of marine occupation of Nicaragua has been $1,628,719, Secretary of Navy Wilbur reported to the senate today in answer to the Blaine resolution calling for an accounting.

Twenty-one marines have been killed and 45 wounded in Nicaragua, Wilbur added. The department has a record of 232 known dead Nicaraguans, including two women and a child.

The amount spent is computed as extra expense incurred over what it would cost to keep the troops here: $1,459,850 for marines; $78,817 for transportation and $54,052 for service.

Son-in-Law Says He Thinks Fall, Himself, Wrote Mystery Note

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, April 17.—Testimony striking at Harry F. Sinclair's defense in his conspiracy trial was offered at a hearing of the senate Teapot Dome committee today.

Clarence C. Chase, of El Paso, Texas, son-in-law of former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall, testified that Fall, himself, probably prepared a mysterious unsigned memorandum found in the committee's files several years ago.

The memorandum appeared in unexplained manner in the committee's files while the committee was investigating Fall's lease of Teapot Dome oil reserve to Sinclair and trying to learn where Fall obtained enough money to purchase his New Mexico ranch property.

Described As "Joke"

It described as a "joke" the idea that Fall was to start a hunting lodge with Sinclair at the Three Rivers, N. M., ranch.

In subsequent oral trials, and in one now under way, Sinclair's defense is that he gave $233,000 Liberty bonds to Fall, not as a "bribe" for the lease, but to buy a one-third share in the ranch where on such a lodge was to be built.

Fall himself has taken a similar position. Therefore, committee members were surprised at Chase's testimony.

Chase said Fall was the only man who knew enough of the facts at the time to prepare such a memorandum.

The memorandum reads in part: "Mr. Fall, of course, had never discussed his purchase or proposed purchase of this ranch property or any other property with Mr. Sinclair and it should be needless to say that he had not attempted to secure and did not secure and has not secured from or through Mr. Sinclair any money upon this or any other account."

Hodgkinson Made Chief. Roland Hodgkinson, traffic officer of the city police force, was named to succeed Chief of Police Winn. All of the appointments, with the exception of city attorney and city councilman, are understood to be temporary. Hodgkinson will receive a consideration of $185 per month as acting chief of police. Winn was receiving $300 per month.

Several resignations are expected among the police officers of the city, it was reported today.

The resignation of Modjeska from the city council places the recall action launched against Modjeska and Williamson in a peculiar situation, it was reported today. If the matter is carried through the courts and the recall election is called, the successor of Modjeska would be recalled, it is pointed out. The anti-administration forces then would be recalling their own man.

Reports were current here today to the effect that the recall suit might be withdrawn from the courts and a new recall action launched against Harry H. Williamson, the only remaining hold-over member of the council. Frank Smith has been mentioned to succeed Williamson if the recall action is successful. Smith was the fifth member of the proposed city council when the recall was started several months ago.

longs, and not undertake to unload it on the government."

Mr. Coolidge's plea against governmental participation in private businesses, predicated his opinion that the rights of individual states should be scrupulously regarded insofar as they did not violate the constitution and that "they should be left alone to solve their own problem in their own way under the pressure of public opinion, rather than have outside authority step in to attempt to solve it for them."

"There always are those who are willing to surrender local self-government and turn over their affairs to some national authority in exchange for a payment of money out of the federal treasury," President Coolidge said. "Whenever they find that their abuse needs correction in their neighborhood, instead of applying a remedy themselves they seek to have a tribunal sent on from Washington to discharge their duties for them, regardless of the fact that in accepting such supervision they are bartering away their freedom."

D. A. R. Avoids Issue Over 'Blacklist'

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Daughters of the American Revolution skillfully avoided an issue over the "blacklist" and other disputed matters at their annual business session here today.

The resolutions committee failed to report a resolution which Mrs. Helen Taft Bailey, rebel Massachusetts member, indicated she would sponsor, attacking officials of the order for advising against so-called "radical" and "pacifist" speakers.

Only one reference was made to the dispute, and that was indirect. Mrs. William O. Storey, past president general, urged the members to support a large merchant marine as a peace and national defense move.

She said congress should provide "adequate national defense." "Love of country" should be the D. A. R. motive, she said, and to that end the organization should not permit "attacks from without or quarreling from within."

ANOTHER BLOW STRUCK AT OIL MAN'S DEFENSE

jokingly, this house, which was useless to Fall, was discussed as ideal for a hunting or recreation lodge and Mr. Sinclair asked if he couldn't invite friends out there if he would fix the place up at his own expense so that they could be accommodated.

"Mr. Fall told him he could use it whenever he pleased. Mr. Sinclair never spent a dollar on it nor has he ever used it, although once or twice since that time and subsequent to what is known as the Teapot Dome lease, Mr. Sinclair and two or three other parties have been on the Fall ranch shooting quail and attempting to shoot and secure turkey and other game."

The committee obtained little significant evidence from the two other witnesses of the day. Thomas W. Miller, convicted former alien property custodian, and Mrs. John T. Pratt, widow of the late New York Republican leader, both said they knew nothing about Continental Trading company bonds the committee is tracing.

After these developments the committee adjourned until tomorrow.

J. K. Robison, U. S. N., retired, testified today that he asked Secretary of the Interior Fall in October, 1921, to keep secret all information regarding leasing of naval oil reserves.

Robison, who was then a rear admiral in charge of navy oil affairs, testified that he impressed on Fall the necessity for avoiding publicity for national defense reasons. He also said that in February, 1922, at a conference with Fall and Director Bain, of the bureau of mines, Bain said it would do no good to lease strips along the boundary of Teapot Dome be- cause another strip would have to be leased a little later to prevent draining of the rest and so on until the reserve was all leased.

"So I urged that the whole reserve be leased," Robison said.

TWO SEAPLANES BELIEVED LOST OFF CLEMENTE

Four planes from the naval air station at San Diego were circling the water at San Clemente this afternoon for trace of two seaplanes reported to have crashed in the district.

According to a telephone message to San Clemente from the air station this afternoon, two seaplanes are missing and reports had been received by the station that the ships had crashed off San Clemente.

Following the receipt of the message San Clemente residents formed searching parties to watch for wreckage along the beach.

The San Diego planes are long overdue and the station fears that the wreck reports may be true, according to word from San Clemente. The San Diego station has two land planes and two seaplanes watching for trace of the ships.

BEACH TIDELANDS SUIT FILED TODAY

The city of Newport Beach launched another suit in Superior court here today in its attempt to determine the line of ordinary high tide in Newport harbor and fix the limits of land which it acquired by an act of the 1927 legislature, which granted to the community its title to property below the high tide mark.

The Irvine company and Orange county were named as defendants in the case by Franklin G. West, who filed 15 others recently as city attorney of the beach town.

Several of the suits have been decided and the court has accepted certain surveys made by Paul Kressly, city engineer.

LAGUNA BEACH PAIR IS HELD TO HIGH COURT

George S. Johnson and J. B. Neal, well known citizens of Laguna Beach, were today held to answer to the superior court from Justice Kenneth Morrison's court, on charges of conspiracy to violate the corporate securities laws of the state of California.

Johnson, who did not testify at the hearing today, was held to answer on five of six counts lodged against him, and Neal, who was on the witness stand for a short time this morning, held to answer on three counts.

Neal, formerly Laguna Beach city treasurer and cashier and vice president of the Citizens' Bank of Laguna, denied all charges from the stand today. He testified that he had never received money from the sale of stock of the Coast Industries, Inc., which stock is the basis for the criminal action against the two men, and that he never urged anyone to purchase any amount of the stock.

He said he served as vice president of the Coast Industries, Inc., during 1927, and was secretary of the organization for three weeks in January of this year. He testified that he knew nothing of the issuance of the stock.

The court action today terminates the lower court proceedings. The case had been postponed in Justice Morrison's court for several weeks.

EASTON RE-ELECTED MAYOR OF PLACENTIA

PLACENTIA, April 17.—With H. O. Easton as chairman, the new city council of Placentia, comprising C. E. Halber, A. Ipsen, E. A. Long and C. C. Curtis, with Mrs. Nellie M. Cline, as clerk, and Harry B. Ipsen as treasurer, assembled in the chamber of commerce rooms last night.

Although C. E. Halber by custom, should have become mayor and chairman, through the efforts of Halber, Easton retains the chair.

Halber pointed out that Easton, as chairman of the old board, had organized the work being done and now that the work is beginning to show results, it is only fair that Easton remain at the head.

Jess R. Buckles was reappointed chief of police, T. E. Pickerill, police judge, Albert Launer, city attorney, and Harce Lucy, fire chief.

In order to bring before the tax payers the two ways in which Melrose street might be paved, the council voted to mail letters to the property owners. One way to raise funds would be to issue bonds, the other would be for the taxpayers to do the work themselves, the city bearing the expense of establishing the grade.

The clerk was ordered to mail letters to those who are negligent in removing weeds from vacant lots, thus creating fire hazards.

GETS 500 DAYS ON POSSESSION CHARGE

Ben J. McCarter, 40, charged with possession of liquor, was fined $500 with an alternative of spending 500 days in the county jail, when he was heard in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court today. Unable to pay the fine, he was committed to the county jail.

McCarter was arrested by sheriff's officers yesterday after five gallons of alleged whiskey was found in the Cave lunch room, on North Main street, just outside the Santa Ana city limits.

THE CAMPAIGN LOG

By United Press

The Colorado Republican convention decided to send an uninvited delegation to the Republican National convention, but the majority of the delegates was said to favor the candidacy of Herbert Hoover.

Governor Al Smith of New York announced he would not attend the Democratic National convention at Houston.

The New York State Democratic committee, meeting in New York City today, is expected, by resolution, to place Governor Al E. Smith before the nation formally as a candidate for the Democratic Presidential Candidacy.

Norman Thomas of New York was selected as the presidential candidate and James H. Maurer, of Pennsylvania, the vice presidential candidate by the national socialist party in New York. The party also decided against inclusion of any reference to prohibition in its platform.

The Porto Rican delegation to the Democratic national convention will be uninvited.

"RUBE DAY" AT POLY HIGH NEXT FRIDAY

Grandmother's Sunday-go-to-meetin' dresses and Uncle Si's farm clothes will all be taken from the attic Friday when students at the Santa Ana high school dress for the annual "rube day."

If costumes on rube days in the past are any criterion, everything from the types of dress worn by a Negro comedian to the bustled affairs of the early nineties will be in evidence. Some of the more light hearted students even will return to their kindergarten days and, wearing socks and short skirts, will come skating to the school with their lunch in one hand, a sunbonnet in the other.

Several rules have been laid down by the faculty, however, in order that the usual day of study may not be interfered with. The wearing of heavy boots has been tabooed as is the carrying of firearms. (Evidently no murders are desired.)

It has also been announced that classes must be conducted in the usual manner or rube day will be discontinued as an annual custom.

SECRECY VEILS DEPARTURE OF BATTLE FLEET

(By United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—Secrecy like that imposed on military movements in times of war today attended preparations for departure of the U. S. battle fleet on its spring cruise to Honolulu. Some time after midnight the 80 vessels of the fleet will slip out through the Golden Gate and steam westward across the Pacific.

The exact hour of the departure was kept secret under orders from Adm. Louis R. De Steiguer, commanding the fleet.

He explained that the secrecy was necessary to avoid an "enemy" force of seven light cruisers, now in hiding on the Southern California coast.

This group left San Diego Sunday with orders to intercept the main fleet before it reaches Honolulu.

The battle fleet now in San Francisco bay, preparing for the departure for Honolulu, consists of nine battleships, led by the flagship California, 40 destroyers, the aircraft carrier Langley and two tenders, the submarine mother ship Holland, the tender Argonne and 11 submarines and a number of auxiliary and supply vessels. Thirty thousand officers and men will make the cruise to Honolulu.

City officials today paid their farewell calls to officers of the fleet and visitors were given a last chance to go on board to inspect the fighting craft.

Liberty Cut Short
Liberty for the sailors was cut short as final preparations for the departure began.

The aircraft carriers Lexington and Saratoga will not make the voyage. They will spend the next month in drydock in San Francisco or making trials up and down the coast.

'Enemy' Craft To Make Stop At San Pedro

SAN PEDRO, April 17.—The light cruisers Memphis, Milwaukee, Raleigh and Trenton are scheduled to stop here tomorrow enroute from San Diego to join the battle fleet at San Francisco.

SHOW TRIAL FINAL ARGUMENTS START

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—"The Captive" was a play that "disgusted normal people," Deputy City Prosecutor Eberhard declared today in his final argument at the trial of Ed Rowland and A. L. Pearce, charged with presenting an obscene production.

Defense Attorney Clark, on the other hand, said the play was not indecent or lewd and that the arrest of the producers had been engineered by private groups who forced the police to the action.

Arguments were expected to close late today.

McCLELLAN FUNERAL TO BE WEDNESDAY

Funeral services for Dewey S. McClellan, 29, Santa Ana, who was killed in an automobile accident on the state highway, seven miles south of San Juan Capistrano, early Sunday morning, will be held at the Harrell funeral home on West Seventeenth street at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow.

The Rev. George Burlingame, acting pastor of the First Baptist church here, will officiate at the services, which will be held under the auspices of the Jubilee Lodge, of the Santa Ana Masonic order. Burial will be made in Fairhaven cemetery.

An inquest into the death was held by Coroner Charles Brown, at the funeral parlors, late yesterday afternoon. A jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

McClellan died of injuries received when the machine he was driving, collided head-on with a machine operated by L. C. Thornton, 4450 Towne avenue, Los Angeles. A heavy fog obscured the vision of both drivers, it was stated.

Two persons were slightly injured yesterday when automobiles driven by D. W. Kelsey, Garden Grove, and Ricardo Oacho, Garden Grove, collided at the intersection of the Stanton and Katella roads. Martha Kelsey suffered a badly lacerated and bruised knee. She was taken to a physician in Anaheim and then removed to her home, Ochoa, who was thrown clear of his machine, was reported cut and bruised.

DANA POINT ROAD BATTLE SETTLED

The controversy over road abandonment at Dana Point, to make room for the possible location there of a large hotel, has been settled, it was learned today.

S. F. Woodruff, Dana Point subdivider, and R. M. Simons, property owner, appeared before the board of supervisors and announced that there is now nothing to stand in the way of reaching an agreement. Simons is said to have been one of the chief objectors to the abandonment, but today he stated that he had withdrawn his opposition.

The board took no final action in the matter and was planning to go into the proposition more fully later in the day.

CITY COUNCIL GIVES PERMIT FOR STATION

Taking the position that as North Main street had been zoned to business throughout its full length at the request of residents on the street, the planning commission and the city council last night voted a permit to Allen H. Hadell for location and operation of an oil station on the northeast corner of North Main and Edgewood Road.

W. L. Grubb and other property owners on the street between El Portal and Santiago creek last Monday night filed a protest against granting of such a permit. A petition filed last night asked that the east side of the street, between the two points named, be changed from the business to the residence zone. The petition was referred to the planning commission.

Disregarding the protest of property owners in the vicinity of the Olive street reservoir, the council authorized the president and clerk to sign an agreement with the Santa Ana Night Baseball association for use of the reservoir as a park for night baseball. Otto Jacobs, president of the association, assured the board that games would be conducted in an orderly manner and that they would be over by 9:30 p. m. The association will prepare the grounds at its own expense.

Request of P. L. Briny for permission to locate oil station on the northeast corner of Seventeenth and Greenleaf streets was referred to the council and planning commission for a joint hearing on April 30.

The Second Baptist church (colored) was given permission to conduct a tag day here on Saturday, April 28, for the purpose of raising funds for erection of church edifice at 1808 West Eighth street. The Rev. D. L. McGriff, pastor, explained that the congregation anticipated raising $8000 for the building and that it would derive a portion of the necessary money by a tag day program. This is the only Negro church in the county, the pastor said.

Councilman W. J. Kelly and Stanley Goode and Building Inspector Sam Preble were appointed a committee to work out a solution to the problem involved in the erection by C. P. Litten of a small popcorn stand on the parking at an entrance to Birch park.

A petition was filed for paving of Parton street, First to Fourth with asphalt. Plans and specifications already have been prepared for paving the street with Portland cement concrete and will be ready for adoption at the meeting of the council next Monday.

Adoption was given a resolution declaring intention to pave Olive street, First to Fourth; Garnsey street, First to Fifth, and Pine, Parton to Flower.

The city clerk was directed to advertise for sale two Ford automobiles at the city garage. The machines were picked up on the streets, after being wrecked.

Police News

LOUIS C. LUHR GETS $110,000 FOR HIS GROVE

Louis C. Luhr, prominent rancher of 2100 North Bristol street, today announced the sale of his 38 acre orange and walnut grove to Aaron Engle, Orange rancher, at a price said to have been $110,000.

The property is located off North Bristol street, in the 2100 and the 2200 blocks and is composed of 15 acres of Valencia oranges, six years old; six acres of Valencia oranges, three years old, and 16 acres of budded walnuts. The walnut grove and the orange groves are all in one tract of land.

Engle owns a 50 acre grove of one year orange trees just south of the Luhr property, and in making his new purchases, has all of his property adjoining.

In the deal is a nine room modern home, located at the corner of Washington avenue and Shaffer street, Orange, of which the Luhrs will take possession on or about June 1, turning over their home on Bristol street to the new owner.

The new Luhr home is completely furnished and is valued at approximately $10,000.

The purchase of the Luhr property, is one of the largest deals consummated here this year, is a striking example of profit realized in ranches in Orange county, according to real estate men who were approached on the subject.

Engle started as a rancher with $500 cash, a number of years ago. He has built up his holdings to the present time to almost 90 acres of the best land in the county, as the Luhr property is considered one of the best groves in Orange county.

Luhr purchased the property eight years ago and has been residing on it for the past several years. He took the first two years in clearing the 38 acres, then planted the trees. Since that time, he has installed the most modern of pumping plants, together with other improvements which made the property a most desirable one.

Engle will take charge of the property as soon as the papers are out of escrow, and will move to Santa Ana about June 1, it was said.

speeding 37 miles an hour in a 20-mile zone and E. L. Duckett, 203 St. Andrews place, was given a ticket for speeding 36 miles an hour in a 20-mile zone.

Lea Hjelen, 86, cook, was arrested on a drunk charge at St. Ann's Inn yesterday afternoon, when he was reported to be raising a disturbance. He was lodged in the county jail.

How Much Water Should Baby Get?
—A Famous Authority's Rule
By Ruth Brittain

Baby specialists agree nowadays, that during the first six months, babies must have three ounces of fluid per pound of body weight daily. An eight pound baby, for instance, needs twenty-four ounces of fluid. Later on the rule is two ounces of fluid per pound of body weight. The amount of fluid absorbed by a breast fed baby is best determined by weighing him before and after feeding for the whole day; and it is easily calculated for the bottle fed one. Then make up any deficiency with water.

Giving baby sufficient water often relieves his feverish, crying, upset and restless spells. If it doesn't, give him a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria. For these and other ills of babies and children such as colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas on stomach and bowels, constipation, sour stomach, loss of sleep, underweight, etc., leading physicians say there's nothing so effective. It is purely vegetable—the recipe is on the wrapper—and millions of mothers have depended on it in over thirty years of ever increasing use. It regulates baby's bowels, makes him sleep and eat right, enables him to get full nourishment from his food, so he increases in weight as he should. With each package you get a book on Motherhood worth its weight in gold.

Just a word of caution. Look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on the package so you'll be sure to get the genuine. The forty cent bottles contain thirty-five doses.—Adv.

Chiropractic Will Get You Well

Your body at one time functioned normally, and if given the chance will do so again. Pinched nerves are the cause of most human ailments, and by removing this pressure we are able to restore permanent relief from your sickness or disease.

Why does your foot fall asleep when you cross your legs? Simply because you are producing pressure upon the great sciatic nerve, thus cutting off the nerve force to that extremity. A spinal nerve pressure acts much in the same way. It is difficult to walk when your feet are numb, likewise the organs or parts of your body will not function properly when they do not receive the proper amount of nerve energy.

FAIR BOARD TO HOLD MEETING NEXT THURSDAY

The monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Orange County Fair association will be held at the office of the association at the fair grounds Thursday evening at 7 o'clock.

This is one of the most important meetings of the entire year for the directorship of this association as many of the more important details of the 1928 exposition will be finally decided upon at this time.

Mrs. J. V. Kelsey, of Garden Grove, the director in charge of the current premium list, has asked all directors to have their final data in for the book soon to be printed and which will carry the 1928 awards. The marvelous growth of the Orange County fair during the past two years has necessitated the association practically doubling its premiums and this season it is expected that the awards will total nearly $20,000.00 in cash.

An added feature of the 1928 fair is the plan of the directors to separate the junior exhibits from the senior and to establish a distinct department for the agricultural boys and girls clubs, the grammar and high school exhibits and the Boy Scouts. This department alone is calling for a top covering some 10,000 square feet of space.

Preparations now being made by the board of directors will demand enough canvas to cover some 200,000 square feet, the greatest show which Orange county has ever sponsored. Increased demand for space far in advance of any previous years assures the association of a show which is "bigger and better" in every respect.

ORANGE SENIORS IN CELEBRATION

ORANGE, April 17.—Annual "O" day was celebrated here yesterday by seniors of the Orange union high school. The affair was kept a secret until yesterday morning, when seniors appeared at school in costumes that might have originated in the nightmare of a costumer.

The costumes included hula suits worn by a number of boys and made of neckties, ancient bathing suits, pointed shoes and costumes that were embellished with the graceful bustle. Bob Windolph and Alice Shultz were awarded first prizes for unique costumes. Earl Lyon, Edwin Guldage and Merle Campbell received honorable mention.

Following the annual custom, the big "O" on the hills north of Orange was cleaned for the year and the seniors repaired to Orange County park for a 9:30 o'clock breakfast.

Teachers going with the seniors were F. A. Henderson, H. Chambers, Miss Ethel Walker, M. M. Fishback and Miss Helen Gulp.

LAUDS JACIANS FOR CAMPAIGN TO GET PARKS

Lauding the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce for launching its park and playground campaign, former Superior Judge F. C. Drumm pointed out at the Jacians' meeting last night the value of such projects in reducing juvenile delinquency and declared that if all the money spent for crime prevention were used for formative purposes of this sort, there would be no need for jails and courts.

The organization, augmented by the addition of 38 new members during the past two weeks, endorsed the playground and park movement and especially the plan of converting the old Olive street reservoir into a stadium.

Judge Drumm pledged his support to the scheme and stated that the boys of the community look to the young men for their leadership. It is particularly fitting for the Junior Chamber of Commerce to be sponsoring an idea of this kind, he said.

Speaking on the topic "Formation Better than Reformation," Judge Drumm asserted that it is more costly to allow a youth to drift into crime and then reform him than it is to guide the formation of his character in the right direction in the first place.

"We have to create the idea that the pocketbook is not more important than the child," he said in stressing the need for educating taxpayers on the value of the playground movement.

"The boy of today has less opportunity for wholesome play and more chance to drift into crime than was true a generation ago," the speaker declared. Fathers and mothers are too busy during the day to be with their children. At night they go out and leave the youngsters with a bobbed haired grandmother whose skirts reach her knees, he jocularly asserted.

The schools have not enough time for formation of the right kind. They are monarchies, he declared, and cannot be very democratic in form because of the class room organization.

The churches pay more attention to the spiritual than the social side of life, where the crime problem lies, he asserted, and opined that herein lies the reason why modern service clubs have become so popular.

Ben Wolk provided the slickest entertainment of the program when he let loose a bag of card tricks which kept the gathering guessing.

Harry Westover and Fred Forgy, local attorneys, engaged in a no decision debate preceding Judge Drumm's address, speaking in humorous vein on the subject. Resolved: that the Junior Chamber of Commerce has lived up to its expectations.

The gathering was dumfounded by a short talk in Norwegian by T. O. Carlson, who neglected to translate his remarks.

WIESSEMAN'S

President McKinley... His war message went to Congress although Spain had about decided an armistice.

By
HENRY W. LAWRENCE

LONG before the Spanish-American War actually began, the diplomats of Europe were busy getting ready for it. The opening up and publishing, since the World War, of the diplomatic archives of some of these European states throws new light on the intrigues they were carrying on in the years 1897 to 1898, while trying to prevent, or to share the spoils of, the Spanish-American conflict.

Especially is this true of the German archives; and the following account is based largely on a collection of these archives, "Die Grosse Politik der Europäischen Kabinette," recently published at Berlin in 39 volumes, and on an interpretative article in the American Historical Review by Professor L. B. Shippee.

In 1897, when it began to look as though the United States would soon be at war with Spain, the German emperor suggested to his foreign secretary that some sort of a joint protest from the powers of Europe be sent to America to head off the damage that would probably come to old Spain, and to the prestige of European monarchy in general, if this conflict should take place.

The German diplomats were more discreet than their master, however, and seemed to fear that the Dingley Tariff might be raised higher against their exports if they took any step which displeased the Yankee power, so they tried to induce Austria to take the lead, on the ground that her royal family was very closely related to the Spanish.

Austria declined, without thanks, this ticklish job, though she was anxious to rescue the throne of the Spanish queen regent and the infant king from the "overseas covetousness" of colonial possessions that the United States was charged with.

When the prospects of war became more imminent, the Spanish government approached the German monarchy, asking it to head a movement in behalf of the monarchical principle "against American republican encroachments." Germany was sympathetic but cautious, and she recommended that France, long in close financial and political relations with Spain, be asked to take the lead. France declined to do this, fearing that Russia and England, both friendly with America, would not follow.

WHILE action was thus blocked by everybody's timidity or indifference, the German foreign secretary sent a long telegram to his ambassador in Austria, describing the whole situation as he saw it. Nothing more could be obtained from the hesitating powers, he said, than a polite protest to the government at Washington, a mere academic gesture; France was unwilling to go farther because Russia, notoriously on friendly terms with the United States, balked at anything stronger, and the political organs of England very clearly showed that her government valued American friendship more than that of Spain.

Under such conditions a move on the part of either Austria or Germany would be worse than useless. Nevertheless, he went on, it was a shame that the queen regent should be made to suffer for Spain's century of colonial blundering.

Might there not be some chance of settling the Cuban issue, the main cause of the war, through the intervention of the Pope? If anything could be obtained of this sort, it would greatly relieve the dynastic situation in Spain because nowhere on earth was the influence of the Pope so great.

It was on March 26, 1898, the German foreign secretary telegraphed to his representative at Rome an order to seek this papal intervention. He pointed out that no one in Spain, with the possible exception of the Socialists, would object to any decision the Pope might reach. He stated also that an increasing number of influential people in Spain believed that Cuba, always a menace, would ultimately have to be relinquished, and this knowledge might smooth the path of papal arbitration. The secretary himself thought that the Pope might do a service to all concerned by giving Cuba its independence and freeing Spain from the Cuban debt, a part of which might possibly be assumed by the United States.

Three days later, a code telegram from Rome brought the news that the Pope had directed Archbishop Ireland, stationed at St. Paul, to go to Washington to "work diligently with the president, who is well disposed toward him," for a friendly termination of the conflict.

For a while, it looked to some Americans as though this effort was going to succeed. Senator Elkins of West Virginia believed this. "It is all fixed," he told a newspaperman one day. "Spain is going to relinquish Cuba. It is not going to be one of these autonomy propositions, but a real withdrawal of Spanish power from Cuba. It only remains now to arrange the details so that Spain can retire gracefully."

His lively hopes were soon dashed, however. The weak Spanish government did not dare to surrender Cuba without a fight, lest popular wrath overthrow it.

Word came shortly to the German foreign office from the papacy that the Spanish government would not accede to an arbitration based on the cession of Cuba, and here the plan of papal mediation fell to the ground. This did not mean, however, that the Pope ceased to work for peace.

It was primarily due to papal interposition that Madrid, on April 9, determined to suspend hostilities in Cuba by declaring an armistice, but it was then too late to prevent President McKinley from sending his war message to Congress. Congress promptly authorized intervention in Cuba, and this made war seem inevitable.

Even after this, however, a futile effort to arrange for a collective note of protest from the chief powers of Europe was made. Apparently the English ambassador in Washington started this false move, and then suddenly abandoned it, causing an outburst of with an offer of the throne to a German prince. Ought the thing be allowed to develop freely, or should it be waved aside?"

THIS was a tempting morsel to the German diplomats. The foreign secretary discussed it at length in a message to the kaiser. There might arise here, he believed, a disastrous situation such as France had once experienced in Eritrea; the mere desire of the natives was not enough to act upon.

If England and America should agree about the future of the islands, then not only would this issue be settled, but matters far more important, for "in any case," he writes, "in my humble opinion, the control of the sea may rest in the end on the question of who rules the Philippines, directly or indirectly." Both Russia and France were concerned about the affair, he said.

If England could be persuaded to withhold her consent, then the United States could hardly be expected to keep the islands.

It would be well, he thought, to send Admiral von Diederichs to the spot to report the situation so that the government might be able to determine what to do before the insurgents got the upper hand or any serious consequences ensued, for precipitate action might cause Germany "to be drawn into a struggle not only with America but with England."

There were other possibilities: the Philippines might be divided, or an independent Philippine state might, as a neutralized nation, be guaranteed its integrity by a congress of naval powers. It would do no harm to find out where England stood in the matter; whether she desired to share in the spoil or whether she preferred that no one obtain anything.

Archbishop Ireland... The Pope dispatched him from St. Paul to "work diligently" with President McKinley.

The kaiser wrote on the margin of this message that he agreed in general with its contents. He was, however, of the opinion that the Philippines, wholly or in part, must not pass to another power "without Germany's receiving an equivalent compensation." If the time was not ripe for an open declaration to this effect, the best thing would be to work for neutralization as a temporary solution.

Inquiries by the German ambassador at London brought out the fact that England thought the American government would not welcome any suggestions as to what should be done with the Philippines. As this seemed to mean that England was not inclined to co-operate in any neutralization plan, that idea was dropped. Von Diederichs was sent to Manila Bay, however, and while there managed to stir up some unnecessary friction between the United States and Germany, much to the disgust and regret of the Berlin diplomats.

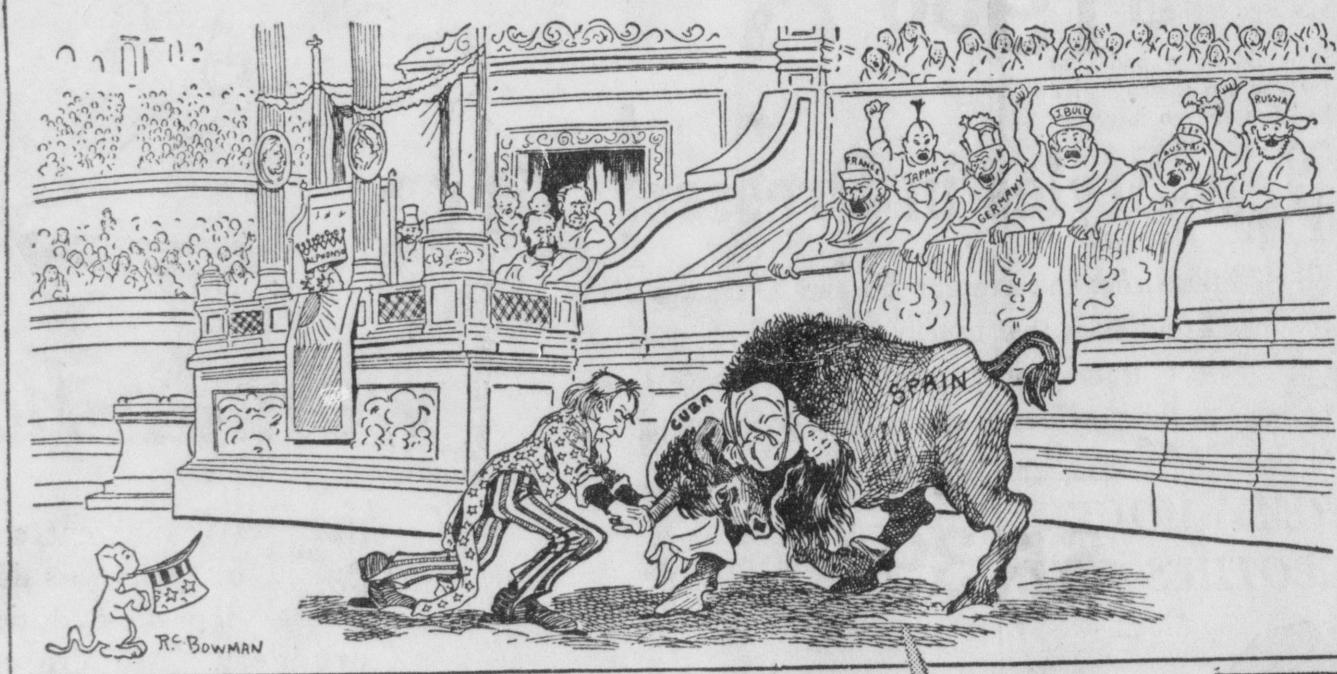

In the meantime, defeated Spain urged upon Germany, France and Russia that the powers assume control at least of Manila, and the German consul in that city telegraphed that the Spanish governor-general would welcome an order to turn Manila over to the commanders of the naval forces of neutrals then in the harbor. This official had gone so far as to confer with von Diederichs and to suggest that he take the initiative, but the latter told him that he was not inclined to take such action without special instructions from Berlin.

The German consul was convinced that the English and the Americans had reached an understanding of some sort. The attitude of France and Russia toward this neutralization proposal was so cool that it was dropped for the time being.

The German foreign office continued, nevertheless, to urge upon the United States the desirability of turning over to her great and good Teutonic friend any and all portions of the Philippine Islands she did not intend herself to annex. Only after the war was practically ended did Germany give up hope along this line, and turn to seeking other "compensations" from Spain, especially in purchasing islands in her Caroline group.

"There can be little doubt," Professor Shippee says after a study of the German archives, "that at the outset, encouraged by reports from Manila, the German government resolved to have an officer of high rank on the spot... to take positive action if the time for it came."

wrath from the kaiser, who expressed his distrust for the English ambassador and his country in the following eloquent remarks, written at the end of one of the dispatches:

"Er lugt vielleicht." (He is lying, probably) he wrote. "England wants to play the same game she did years ago when avowedly she provoked the outbreak of the Greco-Turkish War. She stirs up action of all the powers and apparently participates until they have compromised themselves with the belligerents; then she draws back, pharisaically beats her breast, declares she never had a part in it, secretly joins with one of the combatants—naturally always the stronger—and incites it against the Continental powers. Meantime, at their expense, she begs special trading concessions from it. England won't belong to Europe, it won't throw in its lot with the Continental powers but wants to establish an independent continent for itself between this continent and Asia or America."

THE attitude which Germany took in this whole matter of mediation or intervention to prevent the war with Spain, is thus summed up by Professor Shippee:

"The German government, and especially the emperor, was alarmed at the potential results a struggle might have for the Spanish dynasty because, primarily, of its probable widespread effects for the monarchical principle everywhere; then there was fear that success on the part of the United States in an armed conflict might be attended by disturbing effects on European balance, especially with respect to colonial power. Along with this, and as one aspect of it, there loomed an apprehension that the United States was assuming too prominent a place in world affairs. There can be no doubt that the emperor would have participated in any sort of demonstration which promised success, but there was always a lurking suspicion that any aggressive action might prove a boomerang...

Germany, as a late comer in the race for "places in the sun," was somewhat more aggressively keen than the other powers to grab whatever she could at the end of the Spanish-American struggle. At the time Dewey won the battle of Manila Bay, Prince Henry of Prussia was in command of the German Asiatic squadron. From Hong-Kong he shortly sent the following cable message to Berlin:

"A German merchant from Manila has stated in a way most worthy of credence that a rebellion has justified itself in the Philippines and will succeed; that the natives would gladly place themselves under the protection of a European power, especially Germany."

Only a day or two afterward, the German consul at Manila sent home a similar dispatch, ending with: "Existing indications are that the matter will probably terminate

Yankees Look Like Cinch To Win American League

CLUB WINNING WITHOUT STAR SECOND SACKER

Pennock, Hoyt, Moore and Pipgras Give Champions Some Brilliant Hurling

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, April 17.—Baseball history has a way of repeating itself. A year ago the New York Yankees waited right into first place in the American league by winning six games before sustaining their first defeat, after which they were never headed.

This season the Yankees are the only undefeated club in either league and the pace they are setting and the quality of the opposition with which they are meeting justifies the belief of their supporters that they will cut an even faster pace than that of 1927.

There are many queer things about the current major league season, but one of them is the way the world's champions are playing baseball.

Deprived of their second baseman and a couple of pitchers, the Yankees have set out to win ball games in a most convincing manner. Babe Ruth went through the first three games without a home run, but Lou Gehrig has produced a couple and the pitching furnished by Herb Pennock, Waite Hoyt, Wilcy Moore and George Pipgras has left little to be desired.

Miller Huggins had Pennock ready to pitch back at the Red Sox this afternoon, while several other Yankee twirlers are clamoring for a chance to break into the winning column while the winning is good.

The Philadelphia Athletics, before the start of the 1927 season, presented the same sort of theoretical threat to the supremacy of the Yankees that they did when the current season opened.

Last year they collapsed at the tossing out of the first ball and failed to win one game in the opening series in New York. At the present moment the Athletics are the only club in either league which has not won a single game. They have been defeated three times.

LA BARBA TO MARRY EX-WIFE OF ARTIST

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—Fidel La Barba, retired undefeated world's flyweight champion, will be married to Mrs. Marion De Beck, former wife of the Barney Google cartoonist, Saturday, at Santa Cruz, it became known here today.

Mrs. De Beck left last night for Stanford university, where La Barba is attending school. After her marriage she will enroll in the domestic science classes at the school, it was understood.

Dundee, Fields In Bout Tonight

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—Vince Dundee, Baltimore welterweight, and Jackie Fields meet in a 10-round return bout at the Olympic auditorium here tonight.

Fields won the first affair, but many thought the worst Dundee should have received was a draw.

Dundee will probably try to outslug Fields. Jackie is fast and clever and Vince believes his best chance will be to get in plenty of smashes.

Sampson Beaten In Northern Golf

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—Harold Sampson, defending champion, went down in defeat yesterday in the second round of the Northern California professional golf tournament before Al Sair, Berkeley pro. The score was one up, after the Burlingame pro had led for the first nine. The match came in the semi-finals on the Presidio links.

WON MOST IN ROW

The New York Giants, by winning 20 games in succession in 1916, have the distinction of the longest winning streak ever made by a major league team.

VALUED HIGHLY

With the sale of Chalmers Cissell to the Chicago White Sox for $123,000 and Larry and Reese to the New York Yankees for $125,000, all the fine talent in the Pacific Coast league has not been marketed. Sneed Jolley, star outfielder for the San Francisco Seals, and the championship batter of 1927, is now attracting the attention of several big buyers. Umpire Hildebrand, of the American league, says he is the most natural young hitter he ever saw and a finished fielder. The Seals will want plenty of dough for him.

SEALS, OAKS IN BASEBALL CIVIL WAR THIS WEEK

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—The league leading Seals will face their severest contests of the early season this week when they meet the Oakland club in San Francisco.

Sacramento, at the time, will be playing a series with the Angels in Los Angeles which may threaten the Seals' one game margin.

With Oakland this week and Sacramento next week, the San Francisco club will be called upon to show more ability than previously shown in games with the Missions and Seattle.

Hollywood, one game behind Sacramento and two games ahead of Los Angeles and Oakland, will pit his strength against the Indians in Seattle. Most dopesters have given the stars an edge to win this series in view of the excellent showing made against Oakland and Los Angeles.

The Missions will meet Portland in the Rose City this week. Both teams failed to show much against early opponents and are well down the scale.

MEHLHORN GOING ABROAD

Bill Mehlhorn, one of America's most gifted pro golfers, will compete in the British open championships this summer.

NEEDED A CONTRACT

There appeared in the public print not long ago a little item telling of the discovery by the New York Boxing commission that there was not in its files a copy of the contract binding Tommy Loughran, world's light heavyweight champion, to the management of Joe Smith, who does his business for him.

There is a rule in the New York code requiring contracts between managers and boxers with the stipulation that a copy of the contract be filed with the commission. It was this rule which caused Jack Kearns and Jack Dempsey to go down on paper for the first time, and it was the commission that gave Kearns the evidence for the suits he instituted against Dempsey after they had broken up.

Loughran laughed a little bit when he was ordered to file a contract with his manager and said that he and Joe had never both about contracts. He knew, however, that the commission had no legal hold on his services and a lot of others in the boxing racket knew that Loughran could give Smith the "go-by" any time he desired. That's the point in this little piece.

Even before Loughran won the light heavyweight championship and got into some real money, there were a number of big-hearted boys around Broadway who wanted his contract.

"Joe Smith and I grew up together," he said. "We started in this business together and we're

FULLERTON J. C. DEFEATS SAINT BALL CLUB, 7-1

Coach Bill Foote's Santa Ana high school baseball club took a peek at some high-priced pitching yesterday and the batting averages of all the boys suffered a relapse. The Saints went to Fullerton and dropped a 7 to 1 verdict to the Fullerton junior collegians who rank as the best outfit in the Southern California J. C. conference.

Bob Drysdale, who on Friday will pitch against Glendale in Santa Ana's fourth Coast Professional league tournament, went the route against Fullerton. He was steady at the outset but got his "sinker" to working after the fourth and the opposition went runless. In the first, second, third and fourth, however, Fullerton did some timely slugging and piled up enough runs to be safe.

Drysdale had the honor of driving in the Saints' first, last and only run in the sixth when he slashed a homer. Foly's other rap was collected by Mel Beatty, catcher, who singled in the first.

The Saints meet Anaheim high school here tomorrow afternoon and go to Glendale Friday. San Diego is the only league team with a better record, having collected three straight victories, all by overwhelming margins.

Bourassa, Star Jockey, Dies After Fall

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 17.—Hurled head first against a fence rail from the back of his mount, Julia H., in an early workout this morning at the track here, Jockey Ovilla Bourassa, nationally known jockey, sustained a fractured skull. He died later at Havre De Grace hospital.

HE CAN'T LEARN TOO EARLY

Willie Hoppe started shooting billiards when he could hardly see over the table. So did Jake Schaefer and Little Welker Cochran's old man. Little Welker is shown above with his father, the 18.2 ball line champion, as they started a tour of the world. The little fellow still has to take a handicap from his father but he started with the theory that you can't learn too young.

THE STORY OF TOM HEENEY

Here's the first of an unusually interesting and timely series of six articles—the story of Tom Heene, the rugged New Zealander who is matched with Gene Tunney for a heavyweight championship fight in July, and Charley Harvey, Heene's manager. The author of this series is Henry L. Farrell, NEA Service sports writer and one of the most experienced observers of fights and fighters.

The story of Heene and Harvey is the story of a fighter who, broke and discouraged and anxious to get home placed himself in the hands of an old-timer looking for a "break" and eventually reached the point of challenger to the champion. It is timely and reads like fiction.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL

Tex Rickard's office in New York was hounded so much by Charley Harvey in his quest for some work for Tom Heene that the attendants around the Garden felt the only solution was to throw Heene in with some good fellow and get him knocked off.

Harvey finally was pinned down in the offices of the great man and was asked if he were sincere in his statement that Heene would fight anyone and wouldn't want half the building for his end.

As usual, Harvey was sincere and he produced a pen.

Knew Paulino Tough
There was at that time another persistent person around the Garden attended by so many managers that they were termed his "board of directors." Paulino, just in from Europe, wanted some work also and Rickard saw in him the color, if nothing else, of a prospect for his elimination tournament.

They knew Paulino was tough. One of these fellows who couldn't be stopped. Not a fancy fighter but a tough one. Made other fellows look bad even when he lost. Something like Willie Meehan, Harry Greb and Johnny Risko.

Rickard wanted to use him but he didn't want him to make any of the fighters in the so-called "stunt" look bad. Jim Maloney, Jack Sharkey and Jack Delaney were the hot prospects for the heavyweight eliminations and Rickard didn't want any bums musing them up.

Thought He Had 2 Bums
He had two bums on his hands, he thought, in Heene and Paulino. Why not let them fight and no harm would come of it?

Paulino's board thought Heene was a push-over because he was British and they took the match. Heene accepted also because he had to have the dough and because Harvey told him—"By jimminy crickets, you can beat that fellow! Stop him maybe!"

He fought a ten-round fight and the judges gave Heene an atrocious decision but he did not wall about his hard luck. "I think I won the fight but the decision stands," Heene said. Therein he showed the genial disposition and the patient spirit that is so characteristic of him.

Matched With De Mave
Heene was then matched with Jack De Mave, a good heavyweight from New York, and then he was thrown in with Bud Gorman, one of Leo Flynn's heavyweights. The word went around that the works were in against Heene but the big New Zealander paid no attention to it and Harvey passed it off with a remark—"They certainly wouldn't do it to us."

But something must have been in it because Gorman started throwing punches at Heene's knees at the start of the fight and finally was disqualified in the third round on a foul. The works looked to have been in, not only to steal a decision from Heene but possibly to hurt him.

Heene Didn't Complain
Heene took it in his amiable way and didn't complain a word. He had faith in himself and was getting more and more respect for old Charley. Charley wasn't one of the wolves.

Heene was getting good then and Rickard finally saw in him a prospect but he wasn't good enough for a bally-hoo yet. He was a big fellow, he had that international angle that Rickard is so keen about, but he deshrdesceseshu about, but he needed some good opponents and Rickard then decided to throw him in with his pet fighters.

TWILIGHT LOOP OPENS: LEGION BEATS GROCERS

They're off in the Santa Ana Twilight league derby!

Lacking none of the frills of an opening day, the late afternoon parksters sprinted out of their markers at Lincoln park yesterday on a chase that will carry eight baseball teams through a schedule of 84 games and well into September before the championship is decided.

Pounding Pitcher Raitt savagely in the first canto, the American Legion Bugle and Drum corps had the satisfaction of winning the first contest of the season, 14 to 4, from the Smart and Final troupe. The Legionnaires made seven runs in the opening chapter. The Kiwanis club was to meet the Auto Club of the Orange County this afternoon. The City Hall and the Courthouse collide tomorrow.

Mayor Frank Purinton, City Manager E. B. Collier and City Marshal Claude Rogers participated in the opening ceremonies, Purinton throwing over the first ball for Collier to miss and Rogers to guess.

The Buglers proved that they will be hard customers to beat in the Twilight race on the strength of their clubbing of Raitt's pitching. They hammered out 16 bingles, Tucker, Robinson and Woods contributing homers. Robinson led the assault with three base-knocks although every Legionnaire hit safely at least once.

On the other hand, Clyde Trusty, the trusty Bugler deceiver, was plain poison to the Grocers who were able to garner but four blows, of which three came in the sixth when three of their runs were pushed around. Trusty pitched no-hit ball for four frames.

Overruling the protests of a number of residents of the vicinity who had complained because, they argued, the noise of the games would disturb their quiet, the Santa Ana city council last night unanimously voted to authorize the city clerk to execute an agreement with the Santa Ana Night Baseball association whereby the association may play its summer schedule on the site of the old city reservoir at Sixth and Olive streets.

The association will assume all expense in preparing the grounds for the games, it was understood. Work will begin immediately and

PROFITED FROM
ROW WITH AGE

By BILLY EVANS

Ability is one thing, opportunity another, when it comes to making good as a major league ball player.

The records of the big leagues are filled with unusual cases where some particular unexpected happening has given a player his chance to make good, whereas his ability otherwise might have been kept in the background for several years.

In the major leagues there is no greater young second baseman than Henry Gehring of the Detroit Tigers. The role of regular has been assigned to him this year and Detroit fans are assured of some high-class work, both in the infield and at the bat.

A year ago at this time Marty McManus was regarded as a cinch bet for second base on the Tigers. During the winter George Moriarty, manager of the Tigers, had made a deal for McManus with the St. Louis Browns with the thought that his club would have an experienced second baseman.

Difference of opinion occurs in baseball as in all other things and such a thing caused Moriarty early last spring to bench the clever McManus, simply as a matter of discipline. Gehring was sent to second, but I am sure Moriarty at the time felt the change would be only temporary and, after the sentence had been served, McManus would be back at second.

Getting the big opportunity, Gehring made the most of it. His play in the field and at the bat was so very excellent that it was impossible to get him out of the lineup. Then several other things developed that relieved the rather embarrassing situation for Manager Moriarty.

An injury to Jackie Tavener caused Moriarty to use McManus at short, where he played brilliantly. Later he was used at third and performed in great style at the difficult corner, no player in the American league showing more ability.

This spring Manager Moriarty, in working out his lineup, remembered the fine manner in which McManus performed at third and sent him to that position. He soon outdistanced all rivals for the berth.

When Detroit opened the season this year Gehring was at second and McManus at third. No team in the American league offers superior players at those two positions.

A difference of opinion between manager and player, at first regarded as an unfortunate happening, has worked out perfectly and developed outstanding players at second and third for the Tigers in Gehring and McManus.

Eddie Morgan, picked to star in center field for Cleveland this year, had a somewhat similar experience. Joining New Orleans a year ago direct from Tulane university, no one figured on him as a regular. Then one of the veterans suffered an injury. It was necessary to press Morgan into service. He stayed in the lineup, batted better than .350 and was the outstanding star of the Southern league.

One year has passed and he now is a member of the Cleveland Indians, assigned to fill the shoes of Tris Speaker, for no player has played that position competently since the Gray Eagle passed on to Washington.

Ability is one thing and opportunity another. Both are quite essential to success in baseball.

One of the strange things about the proposed heavyweight championship bout between Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney is the absence of the element of hate.

Psychologists and others will tell you that in order to make physical combat between two individuals to say the least interesting, they must hate each other.

For the past nine years, Jack Dempsey was a contender in whatever heavyweight championship matches were held, and whenever Dempsey stepped into the ring one could be sure that he hated his adversary sufficiently to make a fight of it. Dempsey's forte, in fact, was the hate which he was able to conjure up about his opponent.

Against Georges Carpentier, whom he could have defeated under any circumstances, Jack worked up quite a nice little hate because the Frenchman was hailed as the hero of the war, whereas Dempsey had barely made the shipyard.

Against Luis Angel Firpo, Dempsey worked up a hate bred of that first smack on the temple which nearly put him down for keeps.

Jack Dempsey always was a fighter who supplied his own hates to any battle, particularly if it happened to be for the championship of the world. Jack hated Tunney at Philadelphia, not that it did him much good.

As far as is known, Gene Tunney never hated any of his opponents.

I happened to be at the ringside during Gene's fight with Georges Carpentier. The Frenchman had backed Gene against the ropes in the fourteenth round, when suddenly Tunney ripped a right and left to the body.

"Gorgeous Georges," as they called him at the time, wilted and sank to the canvas. The Frenchman clutched his groin and whimpered that he had been fouled.

I never shall forget the twist of Tunney's lips as he glided across the ring to a neutral corner, muttering:

"Faker!"

To Carpentier's credit, it must be said that he got up and motioned to Tunney to come on and finish him—deliver the coup de grace—in the next round. But that was the only occasion, in all the fights in which Tunney has indulged, in which I knew him to lose his temper.

Certainly at Chicago Tunney had only a disinterested sort of sympathy for the beaten Dempsey.

Now, what about the coming fight? Tom Heeney certainly is not the type of man to inspire hate in any opponent. Nor can the New Zealand seer to work up any adequate hate on his own behalf.

He and Gene will enter the ring as good friends as they are today—and equally as good friends—they will leave the ring after their battle.

All this militates against public interest in the affair. It is possible that between now and next July some one will work up a lot of reason why Gene and Tom are desperate enemies, but it is more likely that they will enter the ring good friends, each with only an academic interest in the outcome of their fight for the heavyweight championship.

men, play in these games and they are entitled, we believe, to some consideration, to say nothing of several thousand citizens who attend at least some of the matches during the summer.

"If the protestants to our proposition want their children to go to the poolrooms or stand around on the streets at night that is their own business, of course, but if they want them to enjoy a good, clean, wholesome sport and assist in advancing the cause of physical education in this city they should send them to the night ball games."

Our Third Annual Special Trade-in SALE

*The Fast Get-Away
—the Quick Stop
of Modern Motors
Demand Modern Tires*

What OTHER tire has kept pace with the rapid development in motor cars, particularly in the past two years — their higher speed, extra power, quicker get-away, sudden stopping — punishment that tears down the ordinary carcass and grinds off the tread of any tire not built to meet the new driving conditions.

Built bigger and better through and through. Not merely thicker in tread — not merely more rubber on the surface. Even some of the cheaper tires can copy the thickness of the tread, but it isn't only the amount of rubber that counts with General — it's the kind. Not simply more rubber but more pure rubber, more per tire — and not only more in the tread but more inside.

Bigger, thicker tires and more quality in the rubber — that is the sort of tire foundation the modern motor car must have. It is the reason for car owners everywhere turning to top quality —

General's Dual Tread Proper Size Line

The SEVEN

for Cadillac, Packard, Lincoln, Rolls Royce, Pierce Arrow—others.

The BIG SIX

for Buick, Nash, Reo, Hudson, Studebaker, Hupmobile, Graham-Paige, Chrysler, Packard
Six, La Salle—and others.

The JUMBO

for Ford, Dodge, Chevrolet, Star,
Pontiac, Whippet, Essex.

Protection That Cannot Be Duplicated By Any Other Tire

It's not only the second 10,000 miles that makes the big hit, but the uninterrupted service that carries through to the last mile—the protection that can be given only when it is built into the tire—

Not the protection that dodges the question of natural wear and insures against accidents by promising free repairs—

Not the sort of protection that you collect on only by having trouble — But the "top quality" protection that means avoidance of delay, of dirt, of soiled and sometimes spoiled clothing, of ruined tubes through going flat.

These are the real protections that car owners want today, particularly since reclaimed rubber in tires has proved such a troublesome experiment for millions of users by causing tires to go out prematurely.

*Always Foremost In Value-Giving—
This Year Bigger Than Ever*

Sale Starts Tomorrow 8 A.M.

Low rubber prices and the added benefit of our special full-value allowance for your old tires enable us to offer an unparalleled opportunity in this year's event—savings in first cost equalled only by the final economy of General's extra mileage.

Cash in your worn tires at their highest worth.

Everyone can take advantage of this Trade-in Sale, no matter how much or little the tires are worn.

Every Make, Every Size, Old or New,
Will Be Taken In

We'll buy your old tires and pay liberally for the miles left in them — the blowouts and road troubles in the old tires, too. Get rid of your doubtful tires before they go out. They're worth more to you off your wheels than on. You trade in the old tires for more than they're actually worth to you today and get in exchange new Dual Tread, "Proper Size" Generals that will run through several seasons in comfort, safety and style at the lowest cost you ever paid.

Never Before Has Top Quality Cost So Little—Never So Easy To Pay For

When the Trade-in Sale opens tomorrow morning, car owners who have thought Generals too high for the average pocketbook are going to be surprised.

We know that once they ride on GENERALS there will never be a question of the cost again, even if tire prices should go to the highest peak.

We want every car owner in the city and vicinity to know what it means to run on Generals—how little it costs to enjoy top quality mileage ANYTIME and particularly now with the special opportunity this Trade-in Sale offers for getting started.

*During This Sale the Friends We Make
Are More Important Than Profits*

No other occasions in the rubber industry have so stirred the wholesale response of the car owning public as have these annual spring trade-in events.

Created originally by General in 1926, it has been widely imitated, but after all, General's top quality is the one possible basis for success, for giving to the public the genuine values of the Trade-in Plan.

Without that feature of quality leadership which only General can give, the Trade-in Sale would not pay us. We can afford it only because of the assurance that customers taking advantage of this sale will "roll with us" for years to come.

Our one big object is new customers by the hundreds. We count upon the long term patronage that top quality wins.

*The Used Tires

You'll find rare bargains in almost every make—every size—many only slightly worn—others we will recondition—and many brand new tires will be turned in, too—all go on sale—select yours early.

SCHOOL VOTERS TO BALLOT ON BONDS MAY 8

ANAHEIM, April 17.—Voters of the Magnolia grammar school district are to go to the polls May 8 to pass their judgment on a $14,000 bond issue. The board of trustees of the school is seeking to raise money to erect and equip a grammar school building in Colonia Independencia, a new Mexican colony located southwest of Anaheim, J. A. Baker, clerk, revealed this morning.

Colonia Independencia was established about three years ago and is located on South Gilbert street near Katella road. It is inhabited by several hundred Mexican families and more than 50 children from the colony are now attending the Magnolia grammar school, two miles away.

The distance of the colony from the school is preventing many of the younger children from attending and, if the new school is built, it should have enrollment of between 60 and 100, Baker said.

Option has already been taken by the board on three quarter-acre lots, located in the heart of the colony, as a site for the proposed new school and plans are being made for the erection of a structure to cost in the neighborhood of $9500, he said.

The site of the proposed building is located adjoining the site recently purchased by the Anaheim union high school for an Americanization center. Opening of bids for the Americanization center is expected to be effected at the next regular meeting of the board, the second Tuesday evening in May.

Newport Citizens To See Tentative Zone Maps Friday

NEWPORT BEACH, April 17.—A tentative zoning map will be shown residents of Newport Beach at a public hearing in the city hall Friday night. The map represents the work of the city planning experts, Gordon Whitnall, Rollin McNitt and Dr. Carol Aronovitch. They were employed by the city some time ago to make a comprehensive survey of the city and determine a feasible planning idea.

The maps will be viewed by the city planning commission and the residents of the city for the first time.

Approval of the map will be in the hands of the city council.

MAYOR BOWEN S. R. Bowen, elected mayor of Huntington Beach at the organization meeting of the city council last evening.

TUSTIN BOARD PASSES 2 NEW CITY MEASURES

TUSTIN, April 17.—Officers and committees will remain the same in this city, all being renamed at the organization meeting of the city council last night.

Following the organization the city council adopted two new city ordinances, one regulating slaughterhouse businesses within the city limits and one governing restaurants, cafes and lunch counters.

A considerable portion of the meeting was given over to the discussion of trash collections in the city. The city recently reached an agreement with H. M. Greeley to collect trash in the city. Greeley has not received much co-operation, it was reported last night. He explained to the city council that he planned to make collections once a week and will collect all tin cans, brush and other trash for a consideration of 20 cents per month per family. People wishing the trash service may get in touch with Greeley by communicating with City Clerk J. R. Harbour or Chief of Police John Stanton.

Former Chaplain Opens Services

HUNTINGTON BEACH, April 17.—Capt. Ted Evans, who opened a two weeks' evangelistic service at the Methodist Church Sunday evening, is a former army chaplain who refers to himself as a vocational evangelist in preference to being called a professional evangelist. Evans says that he does not come as a reformed gambler or ex-baseball player, but as a man who has spent his efforts in preparing himself for his vocation. Because of this intensive preparation his ideas about conducting evangelistic meetings are different, he says. Capt. Evans recently closed a series of meetings in Compton, 140 people joining the church during the campaign.

A. J. THEDIECK, H. B. ATTORNEY QUILTS OFFICE

HUNTINGTON BEACH, April 17.—Election of S. R. Bowen as mayor of this city and the resignation of A. J. Thedieck as city attorney marked the organization meeting of the city council here last night. Committees were appointed by the council which adjourned immediately to the Obarr banquet hall where a reception was held in honor of the newly elected city officials.

The resignation of the city attorney takes effect immediately. The council did not fill the vacancy.

Committees appointed were as follows: Finance, B. Butcher and Elson Conrad; police and fire, committee of the whole; streets and parks, Elson Conrad, Ray Harris, S. R. Bowen; health and sanitation, Elson Conrad, J. W. Mitchell, B. Butcher; gas and sewer, Elson Conrad, J. W. Mitchell, B. Butcher; music and promotion, Elson Conrad, B. Butcher, J. W. Short talks were given at the council meeting by C. G. Boster, retiring mayor, and S. R. Bowen, new mayor. More than 80 persons attended the banquet at the Obarr hall following the council session. Joseph Vavra, city treasurer, acted as chairman of the meeting. Short talks were given by S. R. Bowen, T. B. Talbert, Elson Conrad, B. Butcher, the Rev. Luther A. Arthur, the Rev. S. J. Rogers, M. G. Jones, J. S. Farquhar, L. W. Blodgett, W. B. Mandeville, J. W. Mitchell, O. R. Ahrens, Willis Warner, W. I. Osborn, C. R. Furr, R. Choat, C. P. Patton and L. C. Denslow.

BERT ANNIN IS CHOSEN MAYOR OF FULLERTON

FULLERTON, April 17.—Bert Annin was formally elected chairman of the newly elected city council at the first official meeting of the new board last night. Annin was informally selected for this office last week following the city election.

At a banquet at McFarland's cafe, talks were given by retiring and new members of the council, the outgoing members pledging their support to the new members. Mayor Annin is a holdover member of the old board. The outgoing members of the council were H. A. Crooke, W. J. Carmichael, Emanuel Smith and O. M. Thompson. New members are W. L. Hale, O. A. Kreighbaum, K. S. Elder and W. C. Potter.

No other business coming up, the council adjourned to meet tonight at 7:30 p. m. at the city hall.

Scouts' Tents Taken By Beach Thief

NEWPORT BEACH, April 17.—This city has acquired the "meanest burglar." Someone broke into the Boy Scout cabin and stole all the "pup" tents belonging to the Scouts, according to a report by A. J. Twist, Scoutmaster. Boy Scouts are sleuthing about in an effort to locate the tents. Camping trips, which the boys have been enjoying, are at a standstill until the missing tents can be located. The exact number taken was not reported. Local Scouts are preparing to take part in the Boy Scout jamboree to be held at the Orange county fair grounds April 27. All local Scouts have tickets for sale to the jamboree.

NEW OIL WELL UNDER WAY IN ATWOOD FIELD

ATWOOD, April 17.—Drilling has been started by the Continental Oil company on what is proposed to be a new deep zone well in the Atwood district. The new well is to be known as Mullen No. 1.

The well is on land leased from Sam Mullen, manager of the Merchants' Petroleum corporation, and is located just west of Atwood No. 1 of the General Petroleum corporation and near the E. P. Francis well recently drilled by Featherstone and Preston.

The deep sand at Atwood, which has resulted in a number of good producers during the past year, was discovered by the Continental, drilling for the Merchants' Petroleum, on the Pyne lease, the first big well, Pyne No. 2, having an initial production of 2000 barrels.

The Continental is also making an experimental well out of Kraemer No. 6 near Placentia. No information concerning the well has been given out for several months.

Little work is being done in the East Coyote district northwest of Placentia. The only well drilling on the Chicksan lease is Basten No. 2, which is redrilling at 4040 feet. The Chicksan Oil company, which is a local concern, is concentrating its attention on Signal Hill, where its first well, Exchange No. 1 is down 6400 feet.

The Union Oil company's latest producer at Richfield, Stern No. 5, is making eight barrels per day of 12.2 degrees gravity oil. This was a redrilling job. The Union expects to place Y. L. G. No. 17 in the Yorba Linda tract on production this week.

BALLROOM SCENE OF EXCHANGE MEET

NEWPORT BEACH, April 17.—A last minute change has been made in plans for the evening meeting of the Exchange club Wednesday evening. The meeting will be held at the new Rendezvous ballroom instead of at the Newport Harbor Yacht club.

F. B. CHAMPION NEW MAYOR OF LAGUNA BEACH

LAGUNA BEACH, April 17.—Frank B. Champion became mayor of the city of Laguna Beach last night, when the old board retired from office to make way for the newly elected council.

The placing of Champion in the mayor's chair was a surprise, as his vote at the election was topped by that of William W. Riddell by a margin of about 40, and it was generally expected that Riddell would be appointed. Champion is the only member of the previous board who stood for re-election, and consequently has seniority. Riddell was placed in nomination and the vote stood two for Riddell and three for Champion.

The gavel was turned over to Champion by Thomas A. Cummings, who had relinquished his office a few moments before, and the new mayor replied and pledged himself to the best interests of the city.

Previous to the adjournment of the old council, G. B. Dunham, secretary of the chamber of commerce, presented Cummings with an immense wooden key which he said was the key to the hearts of the people of Laguna Beach.

Appointments of the various council members as commissioners will be announced Wednesday at the regular meeting of the council. The new council transacted no business other than taking the oath of office and the selection of the mayor.

R. E. DOLLEY IS RE-ELECTED AS BEACH MAYOR

SEAL BEACH, April 17.—The two new members of the city council, Elmer J. Hughes and H. V. Snider, assumed their duties Monday night following the canvass of voters of the municipal election held April 9. Mrs. Ollie B. Padrick, re-elected as city clerk, and Miss Elsie McClelland, city treasurer, also took the oath of office.

R. E. Dolley was re-elected mayor, J. M. Ryan, street superintendent, building inspector, water superintendent, fire chief, plumber, sewer and electric inspector; A. G. Johnson, chief of police, traffic officer and poundmaster; Burr E. Brown, city attorney, and Ray W. Shaw, city engineer.

GET 19 BARRACUDA SEAL BEACH, April 17.—Daniel and Oscar Whetstone, of East Seal Beach, made a trip deep sea fishing Sunday in their new motor boat, Aileen, and returned with 19 barracuda.

EXECUTIVE IS NAMED BY NEW ORANGE BOARD

ORANGE, April 17.—Ross Miller, hold over member of the city council, was chosen as mayor of the city of Orange at the first meeting of the newly elected council yesterday.

Miller was elected on a second ballot after the first ballot cast resulted in two votes for George Shoemaker, two for Miller and one blank. The second ballot gave Miller three votes and Shoemaker two.

Before the retiring councilmen relinquished their seats, several matters of unfinished business were acted upon. The resignation of Mrs. Verna Campbell, deputy city clerk, was accepted. V. D. Johnson, secretary of the chamber of commerce, was granted a request for the remainder of the advertising fund that was still to be paid to the chamber of commerce. This sum of $495 represents $100 that is still left of the Queen Valencia court fund and the $395 represents expenditures of the chamber for sundry items.

An order was granted for $200 to be paid the California Electric company for wiring done on the new electrically driven pump on the new city well. This sum is a part of the $220 contract price.

Following the reports of the election boards which were accepted by the council, the members of the council, George Shoemaker, L. H. Intro, Dr. V. A. Woods and W. E. Clement, were sworn in. Clement is an appointed member of the council, filling a vacancy on the board. Paul Clark was sworn in as city clerk and Mabel Reeves as city treasurer.

The organization of the board, with Miller as mayor, was followed by the bringing of deferred business before the members. A permit was granted J. F. Purdy to establish a wholesale and retail doughnut factory on West Chapman avenue at Lester drive.

The application of G. H. Scott to build and operate an oil station at Palmyra avenue and Main street resulted in a motion to amend zoning ordinance to permit the building of the station at this particular point. The motion was carried. The foundation of the station has been laid for some time.

Applications for places to be filled by the council were read, as follows: Water superintendent, W. J. Richardson; city attorney, L. F. Coburn; city inspector, Frank Dale; city recorder, G. W. Ingle; gardener and janitor, G. C. Mondell; police officer, Thomas E. Griffith; motor officer, Fred Swayze; fire truck driver, H. E. Sissons; fire chief, A. G. Tomblin; fire truck driver, Charles R. Olds; engineer of fire department, William Vickers; water collector, Mabel Reeves; motor officer, H. G. Inge; chief of police, B. F. Richards; city engineer and street superintendent, C. C. Bonebrake; night captain, E. E. Kirkwood; police officer, J. E. Johnson; police officer, A. H. Westerman.

New applications were as follows: Superintendent of water works, D. C. Squires; superintendent of the water department, R. W. Wilson; janitor, S. M. McBride; statistician and plumbing inspector, Will M. Parsons; city attorney, H. L. Dearing.

ORANGE MAYOR Ross Miller, elected mayor of Orange at the organization meeting of the council yesterday afternoon.

dent of the water department, R. W. Wilson; janitor, S. M. McBride; statistician and plumbing inspector, Will M. Parsons; city attorney, H. L. Dearing.

The applications will not be acted upon until the next meeting, it was decided by the board. This meeting is to be held April 24, at 1 p. m.

The McCoy well, located on the corner of Eleventh and Olive streets, has been drilled to a depth of 2300 feet.

The O'Donnell well, which is making a deep test at Fourteenth and Olive streets, strung a new casing line and shut down Sunday. The reason for suspending work on this well is not known. It is reported that the well has been drilled to 5600 feet.

PHOTOGRAPH OF CITY VOTED BY BEACH C. OF C.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, April 17.—The Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce had an unusually large attendance at its regular meeting Monday noon at the Golden Bear cafe, practically every line of business carried on in the city being represented.

The chamber of commerce voted to have an aerial photograph taken of the city of Huntington Beach and enlarged for use of the chamber of commerce in its advertising literature and also to assist the city planning commission. Jack Colvin displayed a large picture taken of Laguna Beach and advocated a similar picture for Huntington Beach.

It was announced that Miss Helen Young has entered a contest to be staged at the Elks' mammoth mid-summer picnic at Venice August 5. There will be a popularity contest in each lodge jurisdiction which will close June 23. At the close of this contest the winners in each lodge jurisdiction will compete in a personality contest, the winner of each will be given a trip to Miami, Fla., on Elks' special train, with all expenses paid.

Art Wilson, superintendent of construction for the Standard Oil company, reported at the chamber meeting that recommendations had been forwarded to the head office of his company relative to the improvement of the beach frontage east of the pier.

C. P. Pann, chairman of the entertainment committee, called a meeting of his committee to make arrangements for the next evening meeting of the chamber of commerce, to be held May 11. A. H. Dixon was elected by the chamber of commerce as a member of the entertainment committee to succeed a member of the committee who has moved out of town.

Little Maid's Birthday Is Celebrated with Happy Party

Little Audrey Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Barnes, 204 West Seventeenth street, celebrated her seventh birthday very happily yesterday afternoon, when seven of her special friends arrived to help make the day a memorable one.

Mrs. Barnes had planned a pink and white color effect in all plans for her small daughter's natal day, and the pretty tints were apparent even in the refreshments. Many merry games were played, and snapshots were taken of the children at play. After the birthday goodies were served, the children took delight in examining each pretty gift as Audrey unwrapped her packages.

The seven little maids aiding Audrey in celebrating the birthday were Betty Ann Austin, Neva Meacham, Hollis Gibbs, Verma Marie Osborn, Derinda Bonner, Dorothy Hawkins and Marian Mastich.

Party Reveals Date Of Sauers-Owens June Wedding

Tuesday, June 5, will be the wedding day of Miss Laurene Sauers, charming Santa Ana girl, and Paul Owens of Los Angeles, according to the romantic secret told last night at an enjoyable party given by Miss Margaret Bowen at her home, 1609 Bush street.

Miss Bowen had planned an entertaining game for the early hours of the evening as a preliminary to the announcement itself. At the close of the contest, she brought in a graceful white basket whose handle was tied with delicately tinted tulle ribbon, and which was a mass of fragrant flowers. It was soon seen that the flowers divided themselves into the daintiest of French bouquets, and to each was attached a small envelope. This concealed a card bearing a small picture of Miss Sauers and Mr. Owens, cut into heart shape, and their names and the magic date of June 5.

In the envelope of the honor guest, instead of the card, was her diamond engagement ring, which she at once donned after showing it to her friends.

The next interesting feature was the fashioning of a clever bride's book for the honor guest, each one contributing aid and suggestions in its making. When completed it was presented to her as a memento of a happy evening.

Miss Bowen was assisted by her neighbors, Mrs. Charles Fox and Miss Mildred Fox, in serving the daintiest of cakes, loaves, coffee, mints and nuts, on prettily appointed trays.

Those sharing the pleasure of the evening, and the privilege of hearing the engagement news, were, in addition to hostess and honor guest, the latter's mother, Mrs. John Sauers, Mrs. Erich Melhorn, Mrs. Elmer Thompson, Mrs. Amo Hay, Mrs. Raymond Fisher, Mrs. Richard Barnard and Mrs. Claude Lavier, (formerly Miss Mary Maude Cadle), the Misses Jeanette Hammerstead, Helen Hull, Evelyn Greider, Corinne Pennington and Roberta Cavithon. The Lavier was a bride of mid-March, at whose wedding Miss Sauers served as honor maid, and Mr. Owens as best man.

While last night's announcement was the first made to friends of the young people, the engagement was told a group of eighteen relatives on Easter Sunday, at a dinner presented at St. Ann's Inn by Mrs. A. R. Rowley. Miss Sauers and Mr. Owens were among the guests, and the former wore her ring for the admiration of the family. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sauers of Yorba street, Tustin, and is popular in a wide circle of friends. Mr. Owens is the son of Mrs. Carrie Owens of Los Angeles, and is one of the pressmen on the Los Angeles Times.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

Missionary Society's Spring Party

The lovely ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Colby in Tustin was very gay and festive for the spring party of the Women's Missionary society of the United Brethren church. Nineteen members and visitors arrived at 2 o'clock and were ushered into the house which was beautifully decorated with roses and many other spring flowers.

This was the regular monthly meeting and the work of the church in Japan was studied. With Mrs. J. H. Noble and Mrs. N. G. DeVries as tourist and guide, a visit was made to the mission schools. Besides the city schools, with their kindergartens, English-speaking classes, and classes for mothers, much work is done with the people in the rural districts.

Mrs. O. M. Harrison gave the story of the remarkable influence of one little kindergarten girl, Mrs. W. O. Sidman presented the characteristics of the Japanese people, stressing particularly their courtesy, charm and love of color. She had been fortunate in seeing the Japanese cherry trees in bloom in Washington and said that gave her an idea of what a beautiful country Japan must be. Mrs. Sarah Burton gave a talk on "Christian Homes in Japan," and Mrs. Nettie Davis read a Japanese love story. The life of a little Japanese girl, as seen by one of the missionaries, told by Mrs. Percy Gammell, concluded the program.

In the business session which followed, plans were discussed for the Mothers and Daughters banquet in May, and the branch meeting of all the United Brethren missionary societies in California to be held in Kerman, in June. This society will join the other churches in the federation meeting to be held in Santa Ana, April 26.

Dorcas Society
The Dorcas society of the First M. E. church met Friday afternoon in the parlor of the church. Mrs. John Lounsbury, Mrs. A. D. McGarrugh, Mrs. Florence Raymond and Mrs. Arthur Achey were hostesses.

The afternoon was spent discussing important business items, hemming towels for the church kitchen and listening to the very delightful program put on by little Helen Holmes (Robb), Gerald Robb and Ruth Rime. Dainty refreshments were later served by hostesses.

Many Santa Anans Are At San Clemente for Beach Club Party

Many Santa Anans were among the swimmers and onlookers gathered yesterday for the water sports at the opening of San Clemente's handsome new beach club, when salesmen of the organization were guests of Ole Hanson, famous founder of the Spanish Village.

The occasion was the quarterly "Quota party" given for the salesmen, and was attended by about 200 members and guests of the organization. The beach club was completed just in time for the event, and was ablaze with flow-ers in honor of its completion and of the crowd.

The large plunge was the center of interest in the afternoon for there was staged a program of water sports in which skilled swimmers and divers competed, and which was thoroughly enjoyed both by participants and onlookers. In the evening all were dinner guests of Mr. Hanson at Traveller's cafe, where a brief musical program accompanied the enjoyable menu.

San Clemente clubhouse was the scene of the final feature of the evening, a dance preceded by an informal talk by Mr. Hanson, in the course of which he presented cash prizes to those whose sales during the past 90 days had exceeded a certain fixed sum. The largest bonus of the evening, $471, was presented a Santa Ana sales woman, Miss Celestine R. Young, who thus had the honor of being the first woman to achieve the honor of being first in the list of salespeople.

In his talk, Mr. Hanson stressed the fact that in building a city, they were also building an organization of salespeople that was second to none, and expressed the greatest satisfaction over the spirit of co-operation and honest effort displayed by the workers. He also told of the improvements constantly being made, stressing the fact that everything done in the Spanish Village must achieve a certain standard, citing as an example, the new pier which is to be built at once, and the fact that the contract price was several thousand dollars in excess of the lowest bid. The pier will be built by Merritt, Chapman and Scott of New York.

The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing which was given a particularly lively aspect by the distribution of all manner of favors, toys and noise-producing instruments.

SUB ROSA

By MIMI

The Wrong Introduction
In every crowd of girls there is to be found an unfortunate maiden who simply hasn't got "it" or "they" or whatever describes that elusive something which makes for popularity.

Now if she be thrown with a crowd of girls who are good-naturedly disposed toward the world and each other she will not be entirely without dates.

You see the girls won't be catty about her. They don't wish her any bad luck. She's so harmless they band themselves together to see that she has a good time every once and so often.

Keeping Milly
They go out of their way to make dates for her, introduce her to new men, teach her how to dance, and walk and talk. All very sweet, and commendable of them.

But oh, dear, they're so dumb about it—that is if they really have the interest in her coming out which they profess.

Milly is the little wall-flower I have in mind and Pauline and Anne and Peggy are all agog to help her get on in the world. So they tell me.

Pauline, for instance, the other night upon being invited to a fraternity hop at one of the colleges in town, called up four or five youths in a perfect frenzy, hoping that one of them would ask Milly—just to make a good four as she explained each time.

The Hurried Apology

Here's the way she sounded in her good work: "Hello, Charlie. Yes Pauline speaking. I do want to ask a very special favor of you. You're going to hate me for it, but Milly's such an old friend of mine—yes, Milly you know the tall girl who always looks rather serious. Well really, you know, she's not such a bad scout. She's quite good fun on a party and you needn't dance with her all the time. If we could just get someone to take her. She doesn't have a very good time—and—What's that? Oh, you're taking someone else? I see. All right then," and she hung up with a muttered invective against selfish young men.

Yet who could blame Charlie? If you had been Charlie, would you have had the slightest desire to escort Milly to anything but a subway rush? Even if Charlie had had the faintest idea of taking the girl, Pauline's bright little speech would have settled the question.

CHURCH WOMEN SOCIETY THE HOME WEDDINGS CLUBS FRATERNAL FASHIONS HOUSEHOLD

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SUMNER

Tut, tut, what have we here? Having so perfectly convinced myself that modern man is in much greater demand as a husband than modern woman is in demand as a wife, my eye lights upon the ballyhoo of a forthcoming magazine article called "Women and the Marriage Market," by Henry C. Beers. The ballyhoo says that this Mr. Beers "reduces the whole problem to the basic fact that men used the companionship of women more than women need that of men. Consequently, women assume the position of merchants with something to sell and men are but the customers who have to pay the price."

I still must be shown. It may have been so once upon a time. But I am convinced that today's woman is less independent of man than today's man is independent of woman. He is the rightful merchant and she is the customer.

THE DADDIES ROAM

Spring is bringing forth her yearly crop of wild adventurers. The youth who is riding his bicycle around the world called yesterday. Yes, he admits that some watery stretches may stop his course from time to time. But he'll trade his bike aboard ship just as many miles a day as the boat makes. Then there's the man who just set sail in his paddle boat from Lisbon to New York, and another man plans to cross the Atlantic in some kind of an uncapizable skiff.

All are men, note. Nor will I swallow that old line about the streak of romance and adventure in the manly bosom being stronger than that in the female. It's simply that men can dodge responsibility and women can't. There are just as many women who, in the spring, yearn to take to the open road and the open sea, but feel the ties of responsibility too keenly. Maybe they could drop the load as men do, but they won't. And maybe it would be better for themselves and the race if they would. Then again, somebody has to stay home when the Daddies roam.

"ART OF LOVE-MAKING"

"As soon as a boy begins to wash his hands without being told to do so, and starts combing his hair, he should be taught the characteristics which distinguish the flirt, the flapper, the shy maiden, the bachelor-girl, the petter and the prude."

"Perhaps he should be given a chance to exercise his talents with specimens of every type, and advised how to measure their reactions upon him. Likewise, girls should be told what to expect in the developments of the rowdy, the romancer, the runt, the robust athlete, the mamma's boy, and the mischief-maker."

So writes the author of "Love-Making—A Neglected Art," appearing in "Plain Talk." His whole point being that as much specialized training is needed for satisfactory love-making as for cabinet making or brick-laying.

Well, judging by the experimentation one sees in parks and roadsides right now, youth believes in what he says!

The wooden man soon dipped and landed on the mountain side, and turned until the Tinymites all learned that he knew how to fly real well, so they were not afraid. Said Carpy, "We will be all right, as long as we all hang on tight. Don't do a thing to check his flight, or we will be delayed."

Then Scouty shouted to the man, "Say, kindly tell us, if you can just where you're going to take us. Or, perhaps you do not know." The man replied, "Well that is true. Right now, I simply can't tell you. Wherever little Clowny is, that's where we're going to go."

"I'm heading toward that mountain side. You all will have a dandy ride. Please look around and tell me if you see your missing friend. The bird that took him, I have guessed, has likely dropped him in his nest. We all must keep on looking so's to find him in the end."

Just then they heard a noise nearby, and when they gazed up the sky, the Tinies saw the big black bird that they had seen before. "Why, that's the bird," somebody cried, "that took poor Clowny for a ride. I guess that he's not satisfied with one. He's back for more."

The flying man began to glide,

WEST COAST WALKER

One of the keynotes of the phenomenal success of Harold Lloyd, and his rise to the position of leading screen comedian, is his utter lack of conceit.

"Any actor," says Lloyd, "who lets vanity get the better of him is bound to suffer. It leads him into the belief that audiences are looking to him for their fun, when the fact is they're looking rather to the situations that he contrives and brings out."

"The greatest mistake anyone can make in this business is to think that the burdens are all on his shoulders, or that he is a repository for all the wit and wisdom on the lot," Lloyd continued.

So thoroughly cognizant is Lloyd of this situation, that he always surrounds himself with the best directorial and writing talent in the industry. He frequently reaches out and plucks a leading purveyor of funny ideas from the legitimate or vaudeville fields.

In producing "Speedy," his latest comedy, which is at the West Coast-Walker, and hailed as funny as any of his previous productions, if not funnier, Lloyd surrounded himself with what those on the inside of the industry call the finest staff of assistants in the business. The co-operation of activity on the Lloyd lot is so perfect that during the filming of "Speedy," eight months were spent in its production and there wasn't a hitch in the whole undertaking.

COPPER USED BY SCIENCE TO FIGHT DISEASE

ANN ARBOR, Mich., April 21.—Discovery that copper compounds, when fed with iron, offer an effective remedy for anemia in white rats was reported here recently before the annual meeting of the American Society of Biological Chemists.

The new significance of copper was described by Dr. E. B. Hart, head of the department of agricultural chemistry at the University of Wisconsin. As a result of this discovery, he said, copper may come to be regarded as one of the indispensable requisites in the field of nutrition, particularly as a safeguard in the upkeep of the blood.

The work represents culmination of four years of study with the iron content of milk and its relation to anemia. Doctors Hart, Harry Steenbock, C. A. Elvehjem and James Waddell, agricultural chemists, directed the investigation.

This disease under study by the Wisconsin experimenters is similar to anemia of children, who have been fed exclusively on milk, in that both are caused by the breaking down of the hemoglobin in the blood stream. The experiments were initiated to find a corrective for anemia.

By keeping young rats on a whole milk diet, the chemists caused the animals to develop a severe attack of anemia, in which the hemoglobin of the blood dropped to a low level and the rats were near death. Because hemoglobin is rich in iron, it has long been assumed that additions of iron to the diet would correct the ailment, but with rats, iron, itself, proved to be of little value.

By burning to an ash dried liver, corn grain, or lettuce, and feeding the ash in milk, the chemists produced startling cures with the rats. When ashed, the liver and lettuce possessed a blue hue typical of some copper compounds. This prompted the investigators to use copper as a supplement to iron in the whole milk rations. Equally quick results were secured in restoring the stricken rats to health.

Liver extract, formulated at Harvard university to replace liver in the diets of patients afflicted with pernicious anemia, also proved effective in curing the rats, when it was fortified with iron compounds.

"Experiments to test the effectiveness of copper in the correction of anemia in man will be started in a number of hospitals," Hart said. "Although the treatment of anemia in rats may be considerably different from curing the disease in man, it seems that any method which aids the building of hemoglobin will in the end have a helpful influence on all types of animals."

The copper content of different food stuffs is to be assayed in future experiments in the Wisconsin laboratories. This is known to vary widely and the investigators believe a knowledge of the amounts in different feeds may prove particularly helpful to stockmen who are often concerned with anemia in livestock.

TRAVELER PUZZLE

Here is a new kind of puzzle. It's called a Traveler Puzzle and requires one to journey from square to square until he has completed the entire trip. At the end he will have spelled out, letter by letter, names, slogans or quotations.

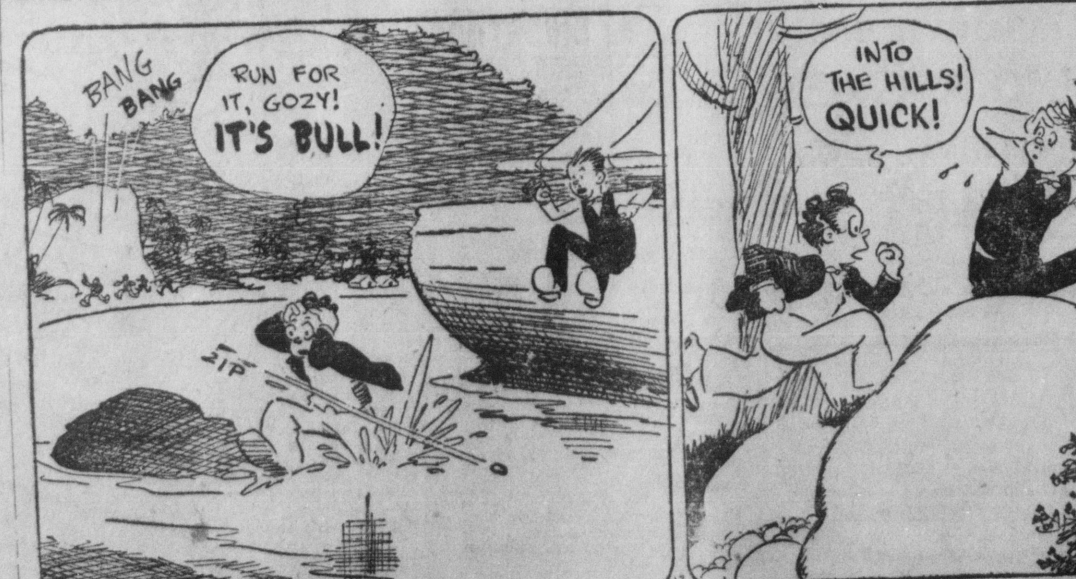

The idea is to begin the journey at the letter marked "Start," in this case "C," and from this move in one continuous line up, down, to left or right, but never diagonally, and only one square at a time, in such a way that the names or quotations are spelled out in order until the letter marked "Finish" is reached. To get you started, for instance, you would move from "C" down to "A," down again to "L," down further to "V," and down again to "I." Then to the right to "N," which would give you the first name of a well known person. After that the going is a little more difficult, but if you take the right turns, you'll come out in good shape at the Finish, with the names of twelve nationally prominent men. Now go ahead and try it, but remember, no diagonal moves, no jumping, no moving out of bounds of the puzzle and no passing through black squares.

EVENING SALUTATION

True worth is in being, not seeming;
In doing each day that goes by,
Some little good—not in dreaming
Of great things to do by and by.
For whatever men say in their blindness,
And spite of the fancies of youth,
There's nothing so kindly as kindness,
And nothing so royal as truth.

—Alice Cary.

COMMUNITY PLAYERS PART OF THE ANSWER

The total receipts from the spoken drama in this country last year were $60,000,000 less than in the preceding year, according to figures given by E. H. Southern in an address in New York a short time ago. Those figures are a keen disappointment, denoting as they do the continued and even increasing lack of public support for the spoken drama. The drama has been and is passing through some trying years due to the competition with the moving picture where an evening of entertainment may be purchased for much less than the cost of an evening of drama. But the thousands all over the country for whom the silent pictures and novelties will never replace the carefully modulated voice and intelligent intonations must make an effort or mourn. They must support the thing they love. It will take positive work and aggressive activity to save the drama from an ignominious death.

Anyone who has even read good plays realizes the possibility in the drama for great good—for the promulgation of beauty, for wholesome entertainment. There is none who was so fortunate as to see Jane Cowl in "Romeo and Juliet" but who appreciates the great destiny of the theater. In the middle ages, the drama was utilized to teach the miracles of the Bible. Subsequently the theater suffered ill-repute. Women were not allowed to act or attend. For many years prominent church denominations forbade its members to attend the theater.

Something must be done for it if it is not to suffer an eclipse again, this time because of indifference as well as ill-famed productions. But something is being done for it.

We should all recognize what it is in order that we may render real aid. There is a prominent example in the contrast between the hazardous path of the play which is now being tried in Los Angeles and the reception and support accorded "Lazarus Laughed" being produced at the Pasadena playhouse. That is the "hinterland's" answer to "The Captive." Ethel Barrymore said the other day that Broadway produces a piece of garbage and sends it out west where they know what to do with garbage. One New York newspaper contained a column article on the "Lazarus Laughed" production and the great reception it is having. But that is only an example outstanding at this time. As the New York producers hear that the small and large cities all over the country are supporting community players, flocking to their performances and by adequate financial support relieving them of economic concern they will rub their eyes and find that their laissez-faire policy and method of excusing their own sloppiness by saying that it is what the public wants has cost them national support. Those who deplore the sixty million dollar falling off in the receipts of the theater and the shameful productions should lend a support to the local community players of which they will be conscious—that is the kind that really counts. Let the local players know who their friends are. We can help save the drama by activity right here in Santa Ana.

CALIFORNIA TO THE FRONT

In the annual report of the Civil Liberties Union, a society organized to guard the right of free speech and free press, attention is called to the fact that Pennsylvania is the worst state in the Union in the matter of free speech. In certain sections of the state the right to speak or protest against existing conditions has ceased to exist. Colorado is a close second. Certain cities of the country, among which are Boston, Philadelphia, Newark, N. J., Scranton and Wilkesbarre, are singled out as being the worst offenders against free speech and free press.

But high praise is given to California for being the freest state in the Union today. We have had our time here of suppressing free speech, but the report of the Civil Liberties Union notes that there is only one man now in prison in California for violating the Syndicalist law, and that the legislature has voted down every law tending to return to the days of suppression.

We submit that this is commendable to the State. It certainly lifts it in the esteem of the people of the whole country. In a state like California the people as a whole can be trusted to be loyal to our institutions and our government, and the very few who may be a menace can be cared for by such statutes as have been enacted for the general welfare. To enact special laws against a few which may be used to curb the rights of the numerous decent people whose opinions are an asset to the commonwealth is always a dangerous proceeding.

FASTER AUTOMOBILES

In the Italian races recently held, the cars having four speeds outraced all the cars having three speeds. The American car, driven by the chauffeur who won the race last year in a foreign car, came seventeenth. The experts at the races claim that the poor showing of the American cars was the result of the three rather than the four gear shift.

This may be the case, but some of us wonder whether we need to have faster automobiles than we have now. With automobiles that easily make 50 to 60 miles an hour, with the congested conditions on the road, and with due regard to safety, we maintain that the four gear shift serves for little more than a talking point. It adds to the amount of the machinery, and thus far serves no useful or needful purpose.

Thoreau protested against steam trains when they were first introduced because they served no other purpose than to give meanness an opportunity to travel faster. This is not the reason for our objection. Four speeds may be very desirable in a racing contest, but for us the three speeds offer every inducement to get to our destination in comfort and on time.

THE REDUCTION OF THE PUBLIC DEBT

The recent figures given out by the Treasury indicate how rapidly the debt incurred by the great war is being liquidated. It should be recalled that the cost of the war did not end at the time of the armistice. The last great loan, the Victory loan, was raised after the war was over. The money was largely used to rehabilitate the allies, and to help them on to a financial footing. The total debt incurred by our participation in the war amounted to some twenty-four billions of dollars. The debt today stands about eighteen billions of dollars. This makes a reduction of about one quarter of the debt in somewhat less than ten years.

If the reduction continues at this rate, the debt will be extinguished in about the year 1955. Most of the debts owed us by our allies in the great war have been funded, and are expected to be paid by 1965. This would leave ten years of income toward the payment of the debt still continuing after we had paid it all. Of course, the probabilities are that in the event of the continuance of payments to us of the allied debts the treasury will regulate its payments in such a manner as to make the debt hold out until such time as the European allies have met their obligations to us.

In any event, the speed with which the war indebtedness is being liquidated indicates the tremendous resourcefulness of the country. Each billion taken off will mean the lowering of taxes and the turning of the moneys thus saved into the channels of industry. One wonders what our prosperity would be today had the nations not plunged into the foolishness and the futility of the war. It may be that the war stimulated the ingenuity which has made for increased production. Necessity has always been the mother of invention, but it should be said that here in America we were moving very fast in 1914, and the movement would have gone on even if the war had not come.

We do not want another war, but it is good for us to know that we have the recuperative powers which can meet every calamity. This speedy reduction of the war debts clearly indicates.

DRAFTING COOLIDGE

The drafting Coolidge movement has received another serious setback in the recent Chicago election. Mayor Thompson, hoping to capitalize the respectability and the popularity of the President for the purpose of continuing his city machine and Len Small's state machine in power, announced sometime before the election that the success of their movement would mean a demand for the continuation of Coolidge. It is very evident that the voters of Illinois were not fooled by this bit of Thompsonian strategy.

It is hardly to be expected that the President can notice every move of his misguided or his self-interested friends and supporters, but it would seem as if some notice might have been taken of this strange affection suddenly manifested by the Thompson-Small group of politicians for the man in the White House. Fortunately the voters of Illinois could not be drawn away from their purpose by drawing this red herring across the trail. We can imagine what Roosevelt would have said and done had his name been used to further the nefarious schemes of those Illinois politicians who went down to defeat in the recent primaries.

OUR CHILDREN

CAN HE HEAR?

A little boy gave his teacher a great deal of trouble. When it was his turn to read he never knew the place. He mispronounced words in a ridiculous fashion. He could work examples from the board if they were addition or subtraction. Any other kind he could not do, made no attempt to do. During lessons when he ought to have been listening and trying to understand the very things he had not known in the last test he was digging in his desk, searching on the floor, looking about at his neighbors and giggling. When the teacher scolded him he grinned at her in a most exasperated fashion.

"He's feeble-minded, I'm sure. How else can you account for such work and such conduct?"

"Have you sent him to the doctor to have his eyes tested?"

"His mother took him to the oculist and he said his vision was perfect."

"Well, send him to the school doctor and ask him to make a special case of him—examine him with a microscope—and see if we can find why he behaves this way. There must be a reason. He is healthy, full of fun; has a finely formed head, very good hands; beautiful teeth. Have you seen his mother?"

"Yes, she came to school but she doesn't know what's the matter with him any more than I do. He's better at home than he is at school."

The very next day the little boy went to the office of the school doctor and by and by he handed the teacher a note that read: "Your boy has no hearing in the left ear and the right one is about thirty per cent fit. He needs to go to the hospital for examination and observation. Keep him close to you and speak slowly and clearly and he will hear you. He seems very intelligent and is very happy when he hears what you say."

Poor little prisoner set to live in a world of sound from which he was almost shut out. He scarcely heard the conversation about him and often what he thought he heard had never been spoken. His impressions were wrong. His ideas were wrong. Everything he had gathered through his ears for the past two years was wrong. An illness had left him with dulled hearing and nobody had noticed.

In the hospital they treated him, taught him, and sent him home with almost perfect hearing. "And it will grow better in time. He is trying to hear so hard that he fatigues very easily. In time he will gather power and control and his hearing will improve."

Do you know that trying to hear is a most fatiguing task? Listening is very hard work. Listening when your ears are imperfect is torture. A child whose hearing is defective cannot stand the strain for more than a very few minutes and takes refuge in some activity that relieves the weary hearing centers.

If you have a dull child, a slow child, a naughty child, an illing child, have his hearing tested. Eyesight, hearing, unobstructed breathing are essential to good work, successful, happy living. Often we overlook the hearing. Let's make sure. Many cases of deafness could have been avoided had we started early enough in their treatment.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

BIRD AND WORM

I like to hear the robin sing,
I like to watch him as he perches
A little while, to sway and swing
Among the branches of the birches.
And yet the fluttering little wretch
Without so much as asking pardon
Consumes, for hours at a stretch
The kindly earthworms in my garden.

Without these earthworms, I am told,
To ply the dull and drab vocation
Of padding Mother Earth with mould
We all should perish of starvation.
With never any friendly cheers
Without the gifts of grace and beauty,
Or even those of eyes and ears
They notwithstanding do their duty.

The insect pests among my trees
All unmolested romp and riot,
I'd thank the bird if he made of these
A staple article of diet.
But no, he's bound to pass them by
And stuff his belly fat and rounded
With these good creatures which supply
The soil upon which life is founded.

And yet admiring eyes I raise
When robins pipe their clear keen joyance
While on a worm I cannot gaze
Without a sudden of annoyance.
And thus, until existence ends
We feed upon hallucination;
It never is our truest friends
Who gain our greatest admiration!

Dr. Crane's Friendly Talk

By Dr. Frank Crane

SWINDLING THE PREACHER

A Chicago Theological Seminary has just completed a survey or questionnaire investigating the amount to which preachers are swindled.

Its results show that the clergyman who escapes being swindled in the course of his ministry is an exception.

Every sucker list contains the names of many ministers, which makes them an easy prey for a sales talk.

The city pastor seems to be more worldly wise than his country cousin.

Ministers were asked five questions:

1. Have you ever been swindled by professional crooks?
2. If so, how, in your present opinion, could the swindle have been prevented?
3. Do you believe in punishing such crooks?
4. How may they be detected?
5. Have you any counsel to pass on to other ministers?

Almost all of the preachers said they had been swindled at various times in amounts ranging from a five-dollar bill given to a stranger with a plausible, heart-rending tale, afterwards found to be false, to thousands of dollars, lifetime savings, usually in oil and mining stocks.

Dr. Ozora S. Davis, president of the Chicago Theological Seminary, drew up these maxims:

Build a reputation for investigating.
Don't rely too much on your own judgment. Send the applicant for aid to the proper charitable organization. Consult a lawyer on important business dealings.

Don't give your card to strangers or letters of recommendation to men, organizations or plans with which you are not fully conversant. You may be an innocent aid to a swindler.

And last study people.
One point that Dr. Davis makes should be stressed.
Use charitable organizations. A great deal has been said about their coldness and heartlessness, but much of it is due to the fact that they investigate every case they help and are much better prepared to investigate it than you are.

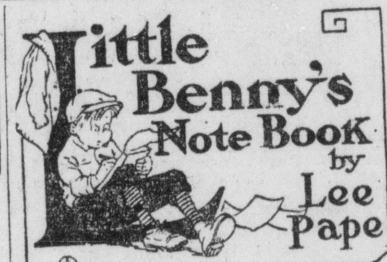

Don't let your sympathies run away with your judgment.
Most of the ministers seem to be more concerned with the spiritual than the material reaction of the swindler. They fear that the constant swindling of ministers might make them "hard boiled" or distrustful of their fellow men.

The minister sitting alone at home, or in his office is usually more easily approached than a business man who is safeguarded by his staff.

Plans are being worked out at the school to train ministers in business and to prepare them against possible swindlers.

The preacher should remember that helping an unworthy man or a fraud is the most efficient way to harm him, and his help should be given only to those who actually need it. This help should be given only to those who actually need it. This help should be given only to those who actually need it.

REFLECTIONS ON DIGNITY

Dignity is one of the fair flowers of a fine mind.

And yet dignity, more than almost any other of the graces, has been prostituted to the base uses of the poseur—that apostle extraordinary of bogus dignity.

Nothing is quite so disgusting as a bogus dignity, and nothing quite so obviously shoddy.

Two observers were watching the self-conscious strut of a newly rich woman as she sought to capture the air of dignity.

"She's a great lady, isn't she?" asked the first.

"No," said the other, "she's too ladylike."

That dignity that is the grace of greatness cannot be put on and off like a fancy dress costume. Artificial dignity is the strut of the superficial.

Authentic dignity is the gesture of the genuine.

I have, now and then, seen little souled ecclesiastics swagger through a gaudy service, garbed in a splendor equalled only by the doorman of a movie palace, and they have always recalled to my mind the simple dignity of the great and gracious Bishop Tuttle who, robed in the austere simplicity of his bishop's gown which he always chose, could transform a clapboard chapel into a cathedral by the sheer majesty of his simplicity; he needed no glistening accoutrements to lend dignity to his ministrations.

And no one felt that Bishop Tuttle committed a breach of dignity when, at the now famous dinner, he leaned simply toward King Edward and said, "Your mother was a good woman." Least of all did King Edward feel that dignity—his or the bishop's—had been violated.

All this has been evoked by my reading this evening—in Abel Bonnard's exquisite travel volume in China—of the contrast between the "dignity" of social life in ancient China and in our modern democracies.

"The servants of a household used to be closely associated with the life of the family," he writes, "and even nowadays no one is surprised to see them hanging inquisitively round the threshold of a room where their master is entertaining his friends. It is then that they recall those secondary personages who are always gathered on the outskirts of the same sort of scene in pictures by the Italian Masters."

"It is," he goes on to say, "precisely in countries where the social landmarks are so well fixed that no one would dream of questioning them that relations between different grades can be so far relaxed that the superior may become familiar and the inferior affectionate. In democratic countries, on the contrary, everybody goes about perpetually on the defensive, chiefly intent on preventing anyone else from scoring over him. Equality and fraternity know nothing of good-natured intimacies."

A dignity that has to be guarded is unreal at its heart.

A genuine dignity that flowers from a genuine greatness of mind and character is always honored and never laughed at.

Humanity Progresses Despite Lapses

Pasadena Star-News

The pessimistic, the cynical, the weak-hearted and the shallow thinking may think the world is going backward—may profess to believe that civilized man is retrograding, and losing mental, moral and physical fiber of pristine purity. Let those who will think this. But those who follow the course of history impartially and without prejudice are convinced that mankind is advancing, despite temporary lapses and setbacks. It is true this generation has witnessed the greatest war of all time, when it fondly was hoped that great wars might be averted. But also is true that this greatest of all wars has inclined the minds of all hearts of men toward just and lasting world peace more strongly than ever before. There are more definite and more practical movements today among great powers to renounce warfare and to perpetuate peace than ever before.

There was the one great lapse from peace—the World War. But if from the World War should come world peace, just and permanent, then indeed would the appalling sacrifices of that great struggle not have been in vain.

There is much crime and vice. But there is no indication that this wave of criminality and vice is a tidal wave, capable of sweeping away decency and respect for law and order. Quite the contrary. As crime and vice become more menacing, the grim resolve of the decent elements of the community to dominate and to check the waves of criminality and viciousness becomes more fixed and more pronounced.

There are those who think that this age is deficient in spirituality. But this is not proven. It is true there are momentous changes in religious life and functioning. But there have been changes in the past, and yet the spirit of religious system has remained unshaken. Christianity may be in the midst of a crisis. But it has passed through crises before and has come forth resplendent and triumphant. The spirit of the teachings of the Man of Galilee will not pass from the earth or be extinguished in the hearts of men, whatever changes may come in creeds and forms of worship.

Be hopeful of the human race. Have faith in humanity. Believe that the world, on the whole and in the long run, is growing better. Facts justify such belief as this.

Half Million Vote for Hoover

San Bernardino Sun

Southern California has almost a million voters qualified to vote in the May 1 presidential primary. By counties the registration is as follows:

Los Angeles	722,425
San Diego	75,358
Orange	43,019
San Bernardino	42,300
Riverside	27,243
San Luis Obispo	25,000
Santa Barbara	18,071
Ventura	13,428
San Luis Obispo	8,923
Imperial	8,493

The total is 984,267. This should mean that there are more than 3,000,000 people residing in these 10 southern counties.

But it is not how many voters that are registered but how many vote that count. Only 52 per cent of the registered voters of the state have cast their ballots at primary elections during the past 10 years, and the percentage in Southern California has been below the state average.

There are 652,361 Republicans among the 984,267 total registration.

Herbert Hoover should have, if Southern California does its duty, not less than half a million votes on May 1. For Californians to make the proper impression with the candidacy of their fellow citizen there must be a great rush of voters to the polls on May 1, even though Mr. Hoover is opposed in the Republican primary. Mark up May 1 as the day to vote!

Witnessing Through a Window

Sacramento Bee

In the recent trial of a case at Springfield, Mass., the point was raised that a witness could not legally testify to anything he said he had seen through a window.

But the judge sensibly ruled out that contention, declaring it merely as old superstition.

Possibly in England, under the old common law, such testimony might have been ruled out, some centuries ago, on the ground that the glass then in use was not sufficiently clear to enable anyone to be certain as to personal identity.

There are a number of old common law rules, perhaps originally reasonable, but now entirely out of date.
